ROOSEVELT PLEADS FOR HUMAN RIGHTS

Madison Square Garden Packed With Enthusiastic Thousands; Cheering Lasts 42 Minutes

NEW YORK, Oct. 30. Showing no physical evidence of the shock of his attempted assassination in Milwaukee, October 14, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt tonight faced for an hour and 20 minutes a Progressive political rally which gave many thousands of his fellow New Yorkers a chance to accord him an uproarious welcome.

For 42 minutes after his entrance into crowded Madison Square Garden, Colonel Roosevelt stood at the edge of the high perched speaker's platform, unable to make himself heard above the din of cheers, songs and band music. His gestures to the crowd for silence served only to intensify the noises; and when, after 20 minutes of cheering Colonel Roosevelt made a determined effort to begin his speech, the immense audience was swung off into another period of cheering by the beginning of the chant "We want Teddy, we want Teddy."

Colonel Roosevelt refused to sit down, or to leave the rail that edged the flimsy platform. Senator Dixon and Governor Johnson urged him to be seated, but he maintained his standing position throughout the entire demonstration.

SILENCE AS MARKED AS DEMONSTRATION BEFORE

The attention and silence that greeted the address by Colonel Roosevelt was as marked as the demonstration preceded it. At the first attempts to interrupt with applause, the presidential candidate motioned authoritatively with his left hand for silence and he accompanied his gesture with a shake of the head that made the crowd realize his desire to be allowed to speak without interruption.

The immense garden was crowded to its doors and many persons were turned away. Gov. Hiram Johnson, Progressive candidate for vice president, and Oscar S. Straus, candidate for governor of New York, preceded Colonel Roosevelt.

As Colonel Roosevelt appeared at the back of the platform men and women jumped on chairs, waved bandannas, flags and handkerchiefs and shouted: "Roosevelt," "Teddy," and other terms of recognition. As the demonstration progressed the band broke in at intervals with songs that the crowd sang heartily to return to the cheering at their conclusion.

SHOWS LITTLE EFFECT OF ATTEMPT ON HIS LIFE

Colonel Roosevelt adhered to the text of his prepared speech, changing scarcely a word throughout. His voice was full and strong, penetrating to the extreme corners of the amphitheater. His right hand, because of the wound in his right side, was scarcely moved in gesture, although he tapped with it emphatically several times upon the railing. He gestured vigorously with his left hand.

The crowds about Madison Square Garden were orderly, but the police exercised extreme care to prevent any confusion. Six men were arrested within and without the hall for refusing to obey the strict orders as to open aisles and against overcrowding.

Colonel Roosevelt, when he arrived, was strongly guarded and although the flashlight men got a picture or two, it was from a distance, for no one was allowed to approach when the colonel left his automobile. He was escorted into the building by way of a fire escape and left the building by the same route.

He spoke as follows:

TIME HAS COME TO STAND FOR LIBERTY.

"Friends, perhaps once in a generation, perhaps not so often, there comes a chance for the people of a country to play their part wisely and fearlessly in some great battles of the age-long warfare for human rights. To our fathers, the chance came in the mighty days of Abraham Lincoln, the man who thought and toiled and suffered for the people with sad, patient and kindly endeavor. To our forefathers, the chance came in the troubled waters that stretched from the time when the first Continental congress gathered, to the time when Washington was inaugurated as first president of the republic. To us, in our turn, the chance has now come to stand for liberty and righteousness as in their day these dead men stood for liberty and righteousness.

"Our task is not as great as theirs. Yet it is well nigh as important. Our task is to profit by the lessons of the past and to check in time the evils that grow around us, lest our failure to do so may cause dreadful disaster to the people. We must not sit supine and helpless. We must not permit the brutal selfishness of arrogance and the brutal selfishness of envy each to run unchecked its evil course. If we do so, then some day smouldering hatred will suddenly kindle into a consuming flame, and either we or our children will be called on to face a crisis as grim as any which this republic has ever seen.

DEMANDS EVERY MAN BE GIVEN HIS RIGHT.

"It is our business to show that nine-tenths of wisdom consists in being wise in time. Woe to our nation if we let matters drift, if in our industrial and political life we let an unchecked and utterly selfish individualistic materialism riot to its appointed end. That end would be widespread disaster for it would mean that our people would be sundered by those dreadful lines of division which are drawn when the selfish greed of the 'haves' is set over against the selfish greed of the 'have nots.' There is but one way to prevent such a division, and that is to

PROGRESSIVE PARTY DEMAND FOR JUSTICE

Crisis in Our History Requires Leadership of Men Like Roosevelt, Says Governor Johnson

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—That the Progressive party is the result of a widespread demand for justice, and is destined to endure, was declared by Hiram W. Johnson in his address at Madison Square Garden tonight. He said in part:

"The victory is won, not alone the victory marked by the counting of the ballots, but the victory in the broader and the higher sense that comes from the crystalization of a great public sentiment founded on a moral conception forcing its way to fulfillment and achievement.

"The history of the development of government is the outcome of the intellectual and moral development of the average man and woman. All great permanent and moral movements have come from the people. Washington and the men who sat in the first Continental congress did not create representative government, but provided the medium through which our people were able to express themselves. Lincoln did not create the sentiment against slavery and for freedom, but through Lincoln spoke the men and the women of this great country.

"THERE IS ANOTHER CRISIS IN OUR HISTORY."

"There is another crisis in our history and, from the humble men and women of the nation, the common men and women, has come another cause as sacred as any of the past, the success of which is essential that our nation may be enduring, and this cause has found its leader, who, as in every case in history, is the medium between the wishes of the people and the fulfilment of those wishes and like all of the great leaders who have made history and marked epochs in the world, feels and knows and understands the necessity of a great people, and has the vision and the wisdom and the courage of achievement.

"The great movement that finally this year has found its expression in the Progressive party has not been the growth of a day or of a year. For many weary years it has been striving and struggling in the great shadow of privilege, unorganized, without real direction, unbroken often, but existing long. When a great national and industrial development made possible gigantic economic combinations of wealth and those combinations representing but few human beings exercised for selfish profit their colossal influence and power, the trembling protest of those compelled to pay the price was first heard.

MOVEMENT HAS GENESIS IN OPPRESSION OF WEAK.

"When first the injustice of these enormous combinations fell upon the overburdened weak, then this movement had its genesis and it continued and grew until there was in this nation a great unorganized sentiment against subtle injustice, against abstraction and appropriation from those who had little to those who had much; against conditions of inequality and oppression bearing harder and harder on those least able to bear it, and upon those very people, who in the final analysis make for the prosperity, stability and real wealth of a nation.

"The preconvention fight at the Chicago convention saw the vanguard of the Progressive movement behind which stood millions upon millions of unorganized volunteers.

"And then came the great August convention, where women and men of the broadest sympathy, the highest ideals and the clearest vision, met to perfect something of an organization around which they, as volunteers, might rally in the movement as sacred as any since the Civil war.

EVEN PARKER INSISTS HE IS PROGRESSIVE.

"No candidate now stands for office unless at least he makes a pretense that he is progressive. It must be not

POINTED STATEMENTS BY COL. ROOSEVELT

To us in our turn the chance has now come to stand for liberty and righteousness.

Our movement is one of resolute insistence upon the rights and full acknowledgement of the duties of every man and woman within this great land of ours.

We war against the forces of evil and the weapons we use are the weapons of right.

We preach hatred to no man and the spirit in which we work is as far removed from vindictiveness as from weakness.

We fully recognize that the prime factor in each man or woman's success must be character—the sum of many qualities, but above all, the qualities of honesty, courage and common sense.

It is in civil life as in war, the man behind the gun counts.

We are proposing no new principles. The doctrine we preach reaches back to the Golden Rule and the Sermon on the Mount; back to the Ten Commandments delivered at Sinai.

Our purpose is to shackle greedy cunning as we shackle brutal force.

We propose to stand for the sacred rights of childhood and womanhood.

We recognize in neither court nor congress nor president any divine right to override the will of the people.

There is not a promise which cannot be kept. There is not a promise we have made that will not be kept. Our platform is a covenant with the people of the United States.

I believe we will win, but win or lose, I am glad beyond measure that I am one of the many who in this fight have stood ready to spend and be spent, pledged to fight while life lasts the great fight for righteousness and for brotherhood and for the welfare of mankind.

Last Republican Rally Here Tomorrow Evening

The last Republican rally of the campaign in this city will be held in the Grand Opera house tomorrow night, beginning at 8 o'clock. The speakers will be Charles W. Waterman, candidate for United States senator, and Charles A. Ballinger, candidate for congressman from the second district.

Jane Addams Speaks in Temple Theater Saturday Afternoon

Miss Jane Addams, founder of Hull House, Chicago, and a woman of world-wide prominence, will speak in Temple theater next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Addams, who is heart and soul for the Progressive cause, has a message to deliver to the women of Colorado. Her address will be full of interest, both to men and women, and the public is invited to hear her.

VICE PRESIDENT SHERMAN IS DEAD AT HOME IN UTICA, N. Y.

Lingering Kidney Trouble Proves Fatal to the Nation's Second Chief Executive; Universal Grief Is Expressed

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 30.—After a long illness, Vice President James Schoolcraft Sherman died at his home in this city at 9:42 o'clock tonight of uremic poison caused by Brights disease.

He had been sinking since early morning and it was realized that death was a question only of a few hours.

There was slight relief shortly after 7 o'clock, caused by an apparent improvement in the condition of the kidneys, but did not prove real or lasting and at best gave only temporary hope.

JAMES SCHOOLCRAFT SHERMAN.
Vice President United States.

At 9 o'clock the patient's temperature arose to 106. From that time his condition rapidly passed from bad to worse until the end. Mr. Sherman was unconscious when the end came, and had been in that condition for several hours.

All the members of the immediate family were with him until the final scene. In addition to Mrs. Sherman, there were in the death chamber their three sons, Sherrill, Richard F., and Thomas M. Sherman, and their respective wives; A. M. and Samuel Sherman, brothers of Mr. Sherman, and Mrs. L. B. Moore and Mrs. H. J. Cookingham, sisters of Mr. Sherman.

Unconscious Several Hours.

Soon after Mr. Sherman's death, Dr. Fayette H. Peck, the attending physician, issued the following statement:

"The vice president died at 9:42 p. m. without regaining consciousness for a moment. He was perfectly quiet. He died in the presence of his wife, her brother and sisters, his two brothers, and his three sons and their wives. He had been entirely unconscious since 7

PRES. TAFT DEEPLY AFFECTED BY DEATH

Band Plays "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" When Sad News Is Broken

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—President Taft was informed of the death of Vice President Sherman at 9:50 o'clock as the chief executive and his secretary of the navy were seated in the Thirteenth regiment armory, Brooklyn, as guests of honor at a dinner tendered them by employes of the Brooklyn navy yard in celebration of the successful launching of the battleship New York today.

The president had just finished a plea for a greater navy and Commander Greaves of the navy yard was speaking at the time when the news of Mr. Sherman's death was broken to the president.

President Taft at first made no comment after hearing the news. He remained seated, briefly concealing his emotions until Commander Greaves and Congressman Calder had finished their speeches. He then rose and said:

Informs Assembly of Death.

"My friends, three years ago we met you all gathered in like this to celebrate the launching of the Florida and we were honored by the presence of the vice president of the United States, Vice President Sherman. This year we said that, notwithstanding that would has just come that the vice president is dead.

"Those who knew him loved him. Those who knew the services he rendered to the country respected him. I venture to ask that this assemblage adjourn in honor of his memory and that no further proceeding be taken."

Band Strikes Up National Air.

A period of silence followed the president's unexpected words. The band came to the relief of the situation by playing "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" and the naval officers and men filed out quietly. The president was

BULGARIANS TAKE TOWN LULE BURGAS

Montenegrins Capture Mount Dardigniol; Scutari Is in Great Peril

SOFIA, Oct. 31.—After two days' fighting the Bulgarian army has gained a complete victory over the principal Turkish forces. The Turks have retreated in disorder. The town of Lule Burgas has been taken.

Little attention has been centered in the operations around Adrianople and the movements of the Bulgarians against Lule Burgas. This town is an important point in the Turkish second line of defense, which stretches from there westward to Demotica. Its capture would indicate that this second line had been broken. Should this be the case, the Turks probably would retreat to Tchorlu, where they possibly might make a stand.

It is officially reported that the Turkish troops at Adrianople have made several sorties, chiefly to the west and northwest but have invariably been repulsed.

Cordon Around Scutari.

RIEKA, Oct. 30.—The Montenegrins have captured an important position on Mount Dardigniol, thus completing a cordon around Scutari.

A vigorous bombardment is being maintained daily against Tarabosch, but no decisive progress has been made. Floods on Friday carried away a bridge across the river near Scutari, cutting off from the town 4,000 Turkish troops.

King Nicholas in reply to the questions "How long will Scutari hold out?" said today:

"We should have been in possession days ago if I were not relied always to have regard for the intimate lives of my soldiers. My Montenegrins are strong and full of self-reliance, but their nerves are inconsiderable. My aim is to spare their lives so that Montenegro may be able to win more battles. We have sufficient for, even without our assistance, the common cause of the Balkan kingdoms have already been crowned with success."

Christians Massacred.

It is also officially reported that three-fourths of the Turkish women wounded at the beginning of the fighting were Christians. One-fourth of the wounded are Christians, which is taken to mean that the Christians were placed in the foreront of the battle.

Five hundred Greeks enrolled in the Turkish army, deserted and arrived here. They will be placed in the [illegible]

COSTIGAN IS VICTOR IN AMMONS DEBATE

Progressive Defeats Democrat at His Own Game and Makes Hundreds of Converts at Denver Meeting

Special to The Gazette.

DENVER, Oct. 30.—Edward P. Costigan, Progressive candidate for governor, beat Elias M. Ammons, Democratic nominee for the same office, at the latter's own game, before a cheering crowd of 3,500 at the Auditorium tonight. Mr. Costigan originally had issued a challenge for a debate on the important issues of the day. Mr. Ammons answered that he would debate on the Roosevelt policy of conservation of public lands in Colorado, and despite the Progressive leader's attempts to have him discuss all the issues, so that the people might know just where the opposing candidates stand, Ammons steadfastly refused to accept the challenge except on his own conditions.

Costigan then [illegible] and so [illegible] state and [illegible] were his arguments [illegible] who declared that his [illegible] ments had led to their conversion to the Progressive ticket.

Following, in part, is the conclusion of Costigan's opening statement:

Costigan's Argument.

In conclusion permit me to say Senator Ammons, in his proposition for tonight's debate, insisted on the consideration of the Roosevelt policy of conservation of public lands in Colorado. The [illegible] has been met. [illegible] and man. I have known intimately [illegible] the east and west, Colorado's mountains, valleys, streams and forests. [illegible] in all individual concern. But there are friends and friends, and I yield to no man even Senator Ammons, in devotion to the welfare of the people of this commonwealth. [illegible] Colorado. No doubt he is in all individual concern. But there are friends and friends, and I yield to no man even Senator Ammons, in devotion to the welfare of the people of this commonwealth. [illegible]

ARREST DYNAMITERS WAS DUE TO HOCKIN

INDIANAPOLIS Oct 30—Robert J Foster, a detective testified at the trial of the 45 accused dynamite plotters today that Herbert S Hockin one of the defendants made the following statement to him

"I'm not going to be the only goat When you take me you'll take the whole bunch I'll be satisfied if I get off with a few years but I will not go on the stand It will be worth my life to testify against the others

Foster testified that Hockin so spoke while the federal grand jury last winter was investigating alleged illegal transportation of dynamite on passenger trains and just before Hockin who is secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers turned over the keys of the union's offices so that the government might procure J J McNamara's letter files

Offered to Get Letters

Foster formerly on the police force in Louisville Ky said as a special investigator of the National Erectors association he came to Indianapolis to help search for evidence

James Hockin [illegible] said Foster [illegible] of the union's offices and letters that held incriminating evidence in them He repeated he was not the only one in the case and did not propose to be the goat for all of them

After he turned the office keys over to Secretary Hockin the latter at night said [illegible] appreciated what he had done and he would do anything by it So far as he was concerned he said we had enough on him already and [illegible] no doubt he would have to give evidence More time [illegible] for he produced a bundle of letters and said Here are some [illegible] in the California jail They were signed by O E A Tveitmoe of San Francisco

Cross Accused Assault.

Hockin formerly of Detroit has a desk in President Frank M Ryan's room in the union headquarters He succeeded McNamara as secretary and in Otto E McManigal's confession he is accused of being an instigator of dynamiting plots

Cross-examined by attorney for the defense Foster testified he was present under indictment charged with assault on President Ryan The charges were that Foster entered Ryan's office and drew a revolver on him Foster also admitted having been dishonorably discharged from the army.

STATE MAY REST IN ETTOR TRIAL TODAY

SALEM Mass Oct 30—The commonwealth announced today in the trial of Joseph Ettor Arturo Giovannitti and Joseph Caruso charged with responsibility for the murder of Anna Lopizzo that it hopes to rest its case tomorrow The defense expects to require about [illegible] days to combat the testimony submitted

The attorneys for the defendants will base their case upon the contention that Ettor and Giovannitti were in no way responsible for the rioting at Lawrence which resulted in the killing of the Lopizzo woman that they counseled against violence and that statements attributed to them urging violent acts were misquoted and faulty translations of addresses made in a foreign tongue

District Attorney Atwill for the first time during the trial today called witnesses to establish the fact of the death of the Lopizzo woman It was also the first time her name had been mentioned in the trial

The witnesses were asked [illegible] before they proceeded to the scene of the fatal riot was the testimony given today by A J Minihan a Lawrence newspaper man Robert Warner a Boston newspaper man declared he saw one of the strikers fire the shot which killed Miss Lopizzo He said the shot was aimed at Policeman Oscar Benoit who was stabbed during the riotings and that a tall man who stood a few feet from Benoit fired the shot over the shoulder of one of his companions

LAWYER TELLS OF HARVESTER LOBBY

CHICAGO, Oct. 30—Testimony that the International Harvester company in 1903 paid a law firm a fee of $8 000 to defeat a bill in the Kansas legislature designed to prohibit the corporation from using an exclusive agency clause in its contracts with its commission selling representatives was given today by Rodney H Swift, former head of the law department of the McCormick Harvester company and later connected with the Consolidated company, in the hearing of the government's dissolution suit

Mr Swift testified that he was [illegible] to Cyrus H McCormick president of the International Harvester company, and Charles Deering, chairman of the executive committee to go to Kansas and attend to the matter and "fix it up" The witness said he arranged with W H Rossington of the law firm of Rossington Husted and Smith of Topeka Kan to prevent the passage of the bill and that later the firm presented a bill for $8 000 which was paid by the company

Delayed Payment of Bill

He said there was some delay in the payment of the bill and that Mr Rossington was obliged to make a trip to Chicago before he received the money. Swift declared that Attorney Rossington, who died several years ago told him that he had expended the money in preventing the passage of the bill in the Kansas legislature.

"Was the procedure in the Kansas matter unusual?" Assistant Attorney General Grosvenor asked

"It was not unusual to employ attorneys in such matters," replied the witness

Counsel for the government questioned the witness in regard to the binder twine branch of the business and asked if several states had not gone into the manufacture of the article

"In 1903 a bill was introduced in the South Dakota legislature to provide for the establishment of a state binder twine factory to be operated by prison labor" said the witness

Was the bill passed inquired Attorney Grosvenor

"Not at that time, replied the witness

"Did the International Harvester company take steps to prevent the passage of that bill?"

"I have been told it did" said the witness

Swift testified that the profits of the McCormick Harvester company aggregated $16 000 000 for the year 1900, 1901 and 1902 although the corporation was capitalized for but $2 000 000

PROGRESSIVE PARTY

ther he is a Democrat or Republican each candidate endeavors to im- his constituency now with the that he is in reality a progresformer Democratic candidate for dent, who presided over the last ention of that party and was de- ced as reactionary, in lachrymose s of late has insisted he is pro- sive. The advocates of the pres- president hysterically assert that s a progressive, and the Demo- c candidate for president, who, g all this campaign has simply ed tilts and is paying the price that harmony in his party which s keeping pace with the slowest, ly insists that he is yet a pro- sive.

ut a brief period ago, to have ched our doctrine of minimum for women, shorter hours for social insurance to provide for age, accident and lack of employ- and our program generally of l and industrial justice, would subjected us to denunciation pub- as 'destroyers,' 'demagogues' and chists.' Today while secretly ing with bitterness at the doctrine our opponents dare not publicly oppose it.

FEW NOW OPPOSE POPULAR THEORIES.

"Assaulting the constitution were we only recently when insisting upon direct legislation, the initiative, the referendum and recall. Now only the most hidebound, those alone living upon the ancient tradition that divides our people into a governing class (to which of course they belong), and a class to be governed, publicly oppose those governmental instrumentalities.

"And thus the Progressive party has contributed to the nation and to the program of political reform that which means true popular rule. It has brought back government to its pristine purpose, the care of human kind. It has presented its program of justice to which the patriotism of the nation has subscribed and it has burst from the shell of shame in national political contests.

"Its cause is destined to be the cause not only of a great nation, but of humanity.

"Progressivism is founded upon a rock and it will endure.

NEW PARTY CONTRIBUTES A NEW CITIZENSHIP.

"And with its causes that mean so much for our people's welfare, and happiness, the new party has contributed as well to nation politics a new sort of activity and a new kind of citizenship—a citizenship that until this year has not actively engaged in political struggle. It has given those men to political activity who today from the purest motives and most patriotic purposes are endeavoring to carry aloft the banner of Progressivism—men like Bird of Massachusetts, Smith of Connecticut, Churchill of New Hampshire, Garfield of Ohio, Straus of New York, Funk of Illinois, Beveridge of Indiana, Watkins of Michigan, and hundreds of others who embody the highest type of American manhood and unselfishly strive in the various states for human advancement and progress.

"And it has given to the nation again a leader who came into the struggle only when the call of all of us made it imperative; yielding to the cause solely because a sense of patriotic duty with his infinite and sublime courage uncomplainingly has made the long and weary fight for us all.

"When the last word shall have been written of this epoch, history will record as its greatest act the leadership in 1912 by Theodore Roosevelt of the great struggle for justice for overworked men, overburdened women and little children."

VICE PRESIDENT SHERMAN

Mrs. Sherman bore up bravely under the shock of her husband's death, as also did the other members of the family. Although it was said at the house that the hopelessness of Mr. Sherman's fight against death had been realized since Friday, the blow, nevertheless, was a crushing one.

Funeral Arrangements Today.

A few of the intimate friends of the family called tonight to express their sympathy, among them Dr. A. H. Holden, pastor of Christ Reformed church, where the Shermans worship.

Soon after the vice president's death it was announced that the members of the family wished to be left undisturbed tonight, and that no arrangements for the funeral would be made before tomorrow.

Dr. Peck remained at the Sherman home for a time and notified several of Mr. Sherman's friends by telephone that the end had come.

The announcement of the vice president's death spread quickly through the city. Universal sorrow was expressed and immediate steps were taken for the proper recognition of the sorrowful event.

Universal Grief Expressed.

Mr. Sherman was regarded as the first citizen of Utica, and all differences growing out of politics died with him.

The mayor gave out a statement voicing the general grief, and the big bell at city hall, as well as many church bells, tolled out the doleful news to a public to which it was not news.

Not only did the Republican organization take proper recognition of the event, but the Progressives announced their intention of cancelling all meetings until after the vice president's funeral. Governor Johnson, who, so long as Mr. Sherman lived, was his rival for vice presidential honors, was to have spoken here tomorrow night in behalf of the Progressive ticket, but his address, like all other events of the kind, has been deferred.

The Democrats also signified their intention of removing a Wilson and Marshall banner which had been flung across one of the city streets and of suspending all political activity until after the funeral.

Mayor Pays Tribute.

In the course of his tribute, Mayor Baker said:

"Mr. Sherman has long been identified with the business interests of Utica. He was ever alert in taking advantage for the city. His home life was beautiful. It was a model for all American families. He found the greatest pleasure when surrounded by those who loved him as a husband and father, and it is there that his genial presence will be missed. Stricken as he was with an illness which required constant watchfulness, Mr. Sherman bore it with a fortitude which exemplified the strong characteristics of the man."

The mayor ordered that the flags on all city buildings should be placed at half-mast and suggested that a similar course be followed with all other flags in Utica.

Not since early this morning, when his attending physician made the final announcement of his inability to do more for Mr. Sherman's relief had there been the least probability of saving the patient's life, or even of prolonging it for any considerable time. It had been the doctor's hope that he might so stimulate the kidneys as to cause them to resume their functions, but when he was compelled to acknowledge his failure in this respect he surrendered, frankly acknowledging that the fight was lost.

Doctor Remains All Day.

Dr. Peck, however, remained with his patient all day, but did little for him beyond administering an occasional hypodermic injection of morphine.

Due both to the presence of excessive uremic acid and to the sedative employed, Mr. Sherman lay in a state of coma throughout the greater part of the day. Only twice did he throw off the dense stupor which enthralled him. On neither of these occasions was he conscious for more than a few minutes. During one of the intervals of consciousness he got out of bed and stood on the floor for a brief period. His weakness was such, however, that he was compelled to lie down, a circumstance which in itself marked the rapid advance of his malady. Yesterday he walked about his room a great deal, and in his delirium insisted upon going down in the street. While in his right mind today he recognized Mrs. Sherman and Dr. Peck and spoke to them in familiar and endearing terms.

System Filled With Poison.

Dr. Peck attributed the crisis in the case entirely to the failure of the kidneys to operate. This condition resulted in filling the system with a virulent poison, which rapidly destroyed the patient's vitality. The poison caused considerable twitching in the muscles and transformed the hitherto ruddy complexion of the vice president's face to a dark purple.

Mr. Sherman's rapid decline in health dated from August 21, when he was formally notified of his nomination as vice president, according to Dr. Peck. He was warned that the exertion incident to the ceremonies might have an ill effect, but insisted that the program as arranged be carried out.

"You may know all about medicine," Mr. Sherman told the physician when he urged him to arrange for a brief and informal notification, "but you don't know about politics."

Failed Since Nomination.

"It was against my advice," said Dr. Peck tonight, "that Mr. Sherman participated in the formalities of the notification ceremonies. I suggested that it would be better for him to receive the committee in the parlor of his home, tell them briefly that, while he did not want a renomination, he would accept in a spirit of loyalty, and let that suffice. When it became apparent that he would not yield to my suggestions, I urged him to make a speech of not more than five minutes. Instead, he spoke for more than half an hour. Two days later the exertions of notification day began to tell on the patient and he began to fail."

Dr. Peck said the vice president apparently had not worried over the outcome of the campaign.

"His peace of mind was more disturbed over his illness, as several of his relatives have died from the same disease," continued the physician. "Mr. Sherman did not want a renomination, but he was loyal, and accepted it with the understanding that he was not to take an active part in the campaign."

When his name was being considered as a candidate for the vice presidency by the Republican national convention, Mr. Sherman consulted Dr. Peck as to whether he had better accept because of his physical condition, but the doctor told him he did not care to advise him upon so grave a question.

COSTIGAN IS VICTOR

tion, that Senator Ammons' policy is not adapted to the general prosperity of our whole people, now or in the future.

Points of Agreement.

Senator Ammons and I are in agreement on the turning of all lands, primarily agricultural, to the making of homes for men and their families. Such land can have no better use. We are agreed that Coloradoans, who are nearest the source of part of nature's wealth, should receive its earliest and even its most decided benefits. We disagree as to the disposition of those parts of the public domain, the property of the United States, reserved to it in the enabling act by congress when Colorado was transferred from territorial to statehood rights. Wherever such domain is primarily valuable for timber, for the protection and regulation of the headwaters and water power on our great interstate streams and rivers or for those essentials of modern life and civilization, the nationally reserved deposits of forests, gas, coal, iron and phosphate, my contention is that such undestroyed wealth is the property of the nation, held in trust, as the supreme court of the United States has determined, for the people of Colorado and the whole nation; that such wealth as cannot be replaced should be carefully used under governmental safeguards without undue waste, in the public interest; and that such wealth as can be both continuously used for the public welfare, or used and replaced, shall be administered in that way in the interest, both of this generation and posterity.

Only Way for Protection.

Only by this far-sighted policy, the small homesteaders, dependent on reasonable grazing privileges, the small farmer, requiring continuous streams flowing from forest-crowned hills, the city dweller, looking of necessity to pure and sustained water supplies for domestic use, and the average everyday man, dependent on hydro-electric power for private business or for municipal purposes, can be protected, now and to the latest generation, against devastation, grinding monopoly, and every evil phase of economic servitude.

Do not misunderstand me. Senator Ammons will doubtless have much to say of alleged defects in governmental administration as applied to this or that individual citizen. These charges are one and all denied by the devoted men who, year in and year out, give the best that is in them to our government service, and they support their denials with the invariable promise of prompt governmental investigation and justice in every case, with due regard to the general welfare. However, if such charges, in some instances, should unfortunately appear true, they do not touch the core of this great controversy. The conservation policy is new. It would be miraculous, indeed, if that policy had escaped some administrative error. The United States postoffice has not escaped them. Our public schools have not been immune. Our army and navy have been the subject of criticism along administrative lines. Yet, who so reckless as to call, on that account, for their destruction?

This Is Our Government.

The government of the United States is our government. For valid reasons, it excites our patriotic devotion. On the whole, it is, and has been, a splendid human institution. It is as patient, kind and, in the end, as generous and great as the American people themselves. Senator Ammons, himself, if report speaks truly, has been benefited largely in the world's goods, in times past, through its assistance, and by its generosity with the public domain. And the welfare of the million people, approximately speaking, of Colorado, and the hundred millions of this country, and of the five hundred millions who, within predictable time, will people it, is not to be imperiled because of occasional administrative defects.

Against Senator Ammons on this supremely important question are ranged the leading scientists, students and statesmen of this country and the world. It may be of interest to know what the national leader of Senator Ammons' party has recently said, as an indication of his and the national party's attitude toward conservation. Speaking at Cleveland, O., on October 11, Professor Wilson had this to say:

"There is the great policy of conservation, for example, and I do not conceive of conservation in any narrow sense. There are the lives and fortunes of the citizens of the United States to be conserved.

Scope of Conservation.

"Conservation covers not only forest reserves and forest cultivation and the safeguarding of water powers and mines, but it includes pure food and the public health and the conditions of labor, and all those things which government must see to, minutely and courageously, if we are not to be sapped of our vitality and disappointed of our hopes.

"Now, the things that stands in the way of the proper policy of conservation and makes it impossible to form that policy is that the government of the United States is now under the influence of men who want to control the forests, control the water courses, control the mines, who will not admit that these are public properties which we hold in trust for future generations, as well as for ourselves, and who are resisting the efforts of those of us who would extend the threads of the law all through these industrial processes which threaten our resources and threaten our lives and vitality.

"All of these matters have to be treated by knowledge and pursued by a constancy of purpose which no special interests ought to be allowed to stand in the way of."

Mr. Bryan, speaking as a guest at the conference of governors in the White house in May, 1908, was not less emphatic as to the necessity of maintaining a thorough-going conservation policy by the federal government. On that occasion he said, in part:

"I acknowledge my obligation to President Roosevelt for the opportunity which he has given me to participate in this meeting. The conference marks the beginning of a new era, during which increasing attention will be given to the far-reaching problems involved in the conservation of the nation's resources.

"I am a strict constructionist, if that means to believe that the federal government is one of delegated powers, and that constitutional limitations should be carefully observed. I am jealous of any encroachment upon the rights of the state, believing that the states are as indestructible as the Union is indissoluble. It is, however, entirely consistent with this theory, to believe as I do believe, that it is just as imperative that the general government shall discharge the duties delegated to it as it is that the states shall exercise the powers reserved to them.

"I begin with the proposition that it should be our purpose, not only to preserve the nation's resources for future generations by reducing waste to a minimum, but that we should see to it that a few of the people do not monopolize that which is in equity the property of all the people. The earth belongs to each generation, and it is as criminal to fetter future generations with perpetual franchises, making the multitude servants to a favored faction of the population, as it would be to unnecessarily impair the common stores."

Quotes Other Leaders.

The speaker then went on to quote other leaders of public thought, including Senator La Follette, in his magazine, on March 9, 1908, in part, as follows:

"Roosevelt steps from the stage gracefully. He has ruled his party, to a large extent, against its will. He has played a large part in the world's work for seven years. The activities of his remarkable, forceful personality have been so manifold that it will be long before his true rating will be fixed in the opinion of the race.

"He has preached from the white house many doctrines; but among them he has left impressed on the American mind the one great truth of economic justice couched in the pithy and stinging phrase, 'the square deal.' The task of making reform respectable in a commercialized world, and of giving the national slogan in a phrase, is greater than the man who performed it is likely to think."

NAT'L COMMITTEE TO FILL VACANCY

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—(Thursday.) Chairman Hilles of the national committee, shortly before 1 o'clock this morning, announced that he has called a meeting of the national committee for November 12 in Chicago to select a successor to the late James S. Sherman as the Republican candidate for vice president.

"The national convention which met in Chicago in June delegated to the national committee power to fill vacancies on the national ticket. The death of Mr. Sherman, candidate of the Republican party for vice president at the coming election, makes it incumbent upon the national committee to nominate a candidate in his place. The nomination, however, cannot possibly be made prior to the election next Tuesday.

"Such a nomination can properly be made only after due and reasonable notice to all the members of the committee. Such notice cannot be given in less than six days. It is therefore manifestly impossible to hold such a meeting prior to the election. Meantime no difficulty or inconvenience arises to the voters at the election next Tuesday, because the votes to be cast then are for electors and not for candidates for either president or vice president and the death of Mr. Sherman therefore does not affect the validity of the election.

"I have called a meeting of the national committee to meet upon the twelfth day of November in the city of Chicago, at the Auditorium hotel, at 12 o'clock noon, to select a successor to the late James S. Sherman as candidate of the Republican party for vice president of the United States."

District Judges Sleep On Job, but Stratton Executors Busy

Exchange National Bank Holds Public Benefaction Funds Without Paying Interest. Local Courts Fail to Take Cognizance of Strange State of Affairs

Mr. Voter, there has been a lot of discussion of late over the management of the Myron Stratton home fund, that splendid bequest to you and yours should your way in life time tangles at the end. This discussion has extended from a report by the attorney-general to the snickers and whispers of school children on the street cars, parroting the gossip heard at home.

Has it occured to you that all of this might be avoided, and perhaps the Stratton home right now be a concrete thing of brick and timber, instead of an attractive drawing in an architect's office, if there had been the right kind of judges on the bench in the Fourth district.

The Myron Stratton corporation took over the estate nearly three years ago, and the three judges have either not dared or did not have the get-up to them to start anything that would have caused the executors to go out of big business and turn the properties into interest-bearing securities, as directed in Mr. Stratton's will. The district judges have full power over the executors.

Has it occurred to Messrs. Morris and Sheafer, two of the district judges during the past three years, that they should inquire into the matter of interest on the Stratton fund that is deposited with the Exchange National bank of this city? What has deterred them from making such an inquiry, fear that the powerful administrators and bank officers would oppose them if they ever came up for reelection?

Attorney General Griffith says that the administrators have kept on deposit at the Exchange bank an average of $187,500 every year for the past three years, on which not a cent of interest has been paid. The bank has this money to loan out without paying for it.

Now, here is the interesting part, that all of the executors are stockholders in the bank and the names of two of them, Dr. D. H. Rice and William Lennox, are on the board of directors of the bank. The treasurer of the state of Colorado gets 2½ per cent annual interest on state moneys, and other big holders of trust funds get interest, but here we have the spectacle of directors in a bank loaning without interest moneys for which they are trustees to their own bank to make a profit on.

Mr. Voter, if you happened to be appointed guardian for a little orphan child whose estate was $500 you could not borrow that money and use it for your own purposes without giving security and interest that the judges of the courts would approve. Why are you any different from the Stratton executors?

Now this $187,500 a year drawing interest at 3 per cent for 10 years, which is the time since Mr. Stratton's death, would have brought $56,340.

That interest, if paid to the estate, would have maintained a comfortable home right here in the city and taken care of the immediate cases of want and distress among old people, carrying out the spirit of Mr. Stratton's bequest. Instead this rich bank has it in its surplus. Why wasn't that seen to, Mr. District Judges Sheafer and Morris? You have had the power to enforce it for three years past.

Do not forget when you come to vote next Tuesday that Messrs. Starrett, Cassidy and Hawkins, all able and honorable attorneys of this city, are the Democratic nominees for district judges and that they are running on a platform which pledges them to see that the Stratton bequest is managed in the interest of the people. It hardly seems necessary to comment that the Stratton executors are not supporting the Democrats.

PROGRESSIVE RALLY HELD IN CRIPPLE CREEK

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Oct. 30.—Despite the storm there was a good representation of voters at the Progressive meeting here tonight. The speakers were Attorney General Griffith and Merle D. Vincent. Mr. Griffith replied to Thomas H. Devine's attack in a Pueblo paper this morning, in which the latter held up the bugaboo of "political suicide" to the former. Mr. Griffith explained his reasons for leaving the regular Republican party, stating that he refused to maintain affiliations with a party dominated by corporate influence.

CAPTURE ORDAZ DISPELS REVOLUTIONARY SPIRIT

VERA CRUZ, Oct. 30.—With the capture of Col. Diaz Ordaz, the revolutionary spirit in the state of Vera Cruz is completely broken. Ordaz was taken by mounted police who were previously under his command. He will be tried by court-martial within a few days. General Diaz is for the present lodged in the city jail. Many troops are embarking for Yucatan, where a revolutionary movement of minor importance is under way.

SICK DAUGHTER NOW WELL

Mrs. C. Cole Tells How Her Daughter Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio.—"I take great pleasure in writing to thank you for what your medicine has done for my daughter.

"Before taking your medicine she was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, could not walk but a short distance at a time, and had severe pains in head and limbs. She came very near having nervous prostration. She had begun to cough a good deal and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help.

"I cannot find words to express my gratefulness for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for my daughter. She feels and looks like another girl since taking it, and I shall always feel that I owe you a great debt.

"You can use this letter for the benefit of others if you wish, as I shall always recommend your medicines for female troubles."—Mrs. C. COLE, Fitchville, Ohio.

Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

Young Girls, Heed This Advice.

Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

STILL UNCONSCIOUS 102 HOURS AFTER ACCIDENT

Harry Hansen, who has been unconscious at St. Francis hospital since Saturday evening, as the result of a fall from his horse on West San Miguel street, was still delirious at 1 o'clock this (Thursday) morning, approximately 102 hours after the accident. About 6 o'clock last evening he opened his eyes for an instant, seemed to partly realize his condition, took a little nourishment and then relapsed into unconsciousness again. He was not able to speak at that time. His condition seemed better yesterday and is believed he has a fair chance of recovery.

BECKER SENTENCED TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

Taken to Sing Sing Prison. Appeal Will Stay the Execution

OSSINING, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Former Police Lieutenant Charles Becker is in the "death house" at Sing Sing prison tonight under sentence to die in the electric chair during the week of December 9, the convicted murderer of the gambler, Herman Rosenthal. He was brought here from New York today immediately after sentence was pronounced upon him by Justice Goff in the courtroom where he was found guilty six days ago.

Becker's execution will be stayed, however, by the filing in the interim of a notice of appeal from the verdict, in this lies Becker's only hope of escape from death. His last words before the gates of the prison were shut behind him this afternoon were:

"I come here an innocent man. I never had a chance. I was railroaded. But the fight has only begun. I expect a reversal of the verdict and a new trial."

Withstands Gazing Ordeal.

Becker, manacled to a deputy sheriff, arrived at the prison at 1:20 o'clock, after a 20-minute walk through the streets of the village, surrounded by several hundred persons curious to see him. With stolid countenance and head erect, Becker withstood the ordeal without losing his composure.

A window of the warden's office framed a woman's tear-stained face as Becker marched up the prison walk. It was that of the convicted man's wife, who had accompanied him from New York and had driven ahead of him from the railroad station. Becker waved his hand sadly and the woman threw a kiss.

Wife Remains Loyal.

An hour later, after the formality of taking the prisoner's pedigree had been disposed of, Becker was in his death cell in solitary confinement clad in prison garb and entered as Prisoner No. 62,469. Ten other condemned murderers occupy cells in the "death house" with him.

Mrs. Becker was allowed to see her husband through the steel screen of his cell door before she departed, but was forbidden entrance. She purposes to make her residence in Ossining during her husband's confinement, and will be allowed to visit him daily, but not to enter his cell.

In reply to the argument that Kansas has a rate of from 65 to 100 per cent lower than here, the supervisors replied that the rate in Kansas was to be raised.

WILSON EXPRESSES SORROW

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 30.—Woodrow Wilson, governor [illegible] deep sorrow.

ROOSEVELT PLEADS

forestall it by the kind of a movement in which we are now engaged.

"Our movement is one of resolute insistence upon the rights, and full acknowledgement of the duties of every man and every woman within this great land of ours. We war against the forces of evil, and the weapons we use are the weapons of right. We do not set greed against greed, or hatred against hatred. Our creed is one that bids us be just to all, to feel sympathy for all and to strive for an understanding of the needs of all. Our purpose is to smite down wrong. But toward those who have done the wrong we feel only the kindliest charity that is compatible with causing the wrong to cease.

NATION DEPENDS ON INDIVIDUAL CHARACTER.

"We preach hatred to no man, and the spirit in which we work is as far removed from vindictiveness as from weakness. We are resolute to do away with the evil, and we intend to proceed with such wise and cautious sanity as will cause the very minimum of disturbance that is compatible with achieving our purpose.

"We do not forget that we are not proposing to substitute law for character. We are merely proposing to buttress character by law. We fully recognize that, as has been true in the past, so it is true now, and ever will be true, that the prime factor in each man or woman's success must normally be that man or woman's own character—character, the sum of many qualities, but above all, the qualities of honesty, of courage and of common sense. Nothing will avail a nation if there is not the right type of character among the average men and women, the plain people, the hardworking decent-living, right-thinking people people who make up the great bulk of our citizenship. I know my countrymen; I know that they are of this type.

"But it is in civil life as it is in war. In war, it is the man behind the gun that counts most, and yet he cannot do his work unless he has the right kind of gun. In civil life, in the every day life of our nation, it is individual character which counts most; and yet the individual character cannot avail, unless in addition thereto there be ready to hand the social weapons which can be forged only by law and by public opinion operating true and operated upon by law.

PRINCIPLES REACH BACK TO THE GOLDEN RULE

"Again, friends, do not forget that we are proposing no new principles. The doctrines we preach reach back to the golden rule and the sermon on the mount. They reach back to the commandments delivered at Sinai. All that we are doing is to apply these doctrines in the shape necessary to make them available for meeting the living issues of our own day.

"We decline to be bound by the empty cut-and-dried formulas of by-gone philosophies useful once perhaps, but useless now. Our purpose is to shackle greedy cunning as we shackle brutal force, and we are not to be diverted from this purpose by the appeal to the dead dogmas of ages past. We propose to lift the burdens from the lowly and the weary, from the poor and the oppressed. We propose to stand for the sacred rights of childhood and womanhood. Nay, more, we propose to see that manhood is not crushed out of the men who toil, by excessive hours of labor, by underpayment, by injustice and oppression.

"When this purpose can only be secured by the collective action of our people through their governmental agencies, we propose so to secure it. We brush aside the arguments of those who seek to bar action by the repetition of some formula about 'states' rights' or about 'the history of liberty,' being 'the history of the limitation of governmental power' or about the duty of the courts finally to determine the meaning of the constitution. We are for human rights, and we intend to work for them in efficient fashion. Where they can be best obtained by the application of the doctrines of states' rights, then we are for states' rights.

"Where, in order to obtain them it is necessary to invoke the power of the nation then we shall invoke to its uttermost limits that mighty power.

STAND FOR LIBERTY OF THE OPPRESSED.

"We are for liberty. But we are for the liberty of the oppressed, and not for the liberty of the oppressed to oppress the weak and to bind burdens on the shoulders of the heavy laden. It is idle to ask us not to exercise the power of the government when only by the power of the government can we curb the greed that sits in high places, when only by the exercise of the government can we exalt the lowly and give heart to the humble and the down-trodden.

"We care for facts and not for formulas. We care for deeds and not for words. We recognize no sacred right of oppression. We recognize no divine right to work injustice. We stand for the constitution. We recognize that one of its most useful functions is the protection of property. But we will not consent to make of the constitution a refuge for the protection of fossilized wrong. We call the attention of those who thus interpret it to the fact that in that great instrument of justice, life and liberty are put on a full level with property, indeed, are enumerated ahead of it in the order of their importance.

COURTS AND GOVERNMENT BELONG TO THE PEOPLE.

"We stand for an upright judiciary. But where the judges claim the right to make our laws by finally interpreting them, by finally deciding whether or not we have the power to make them, then we claim the right ourselves to exercise that power. We forbid any men, no matter what their official position may be, to usurp the right which is ours, the right which is the people's. We recognize in neither court nor congress nor president any divine right to override the will of the people expressed with due deliberation in orderly fashion and through the forms of law. We Progressives hold that the words of the declaration of independence as given effect to by Washington, and as construed and applied by Abraham Lincoln, are to be accepted as real and not as empty phrases. We believe that in very truth this is a government by the people, themselves, that the constitution is theirs. That the courts are theirs, that all the governmental agents and agencies are theirs.

"We believe that all true leaders of the people must fearlessly stand for righteousness and honesty, must fearlessly tell the people what justice and honor demand. But we no less strongly insist that it is for the people themselves finally to decide all questions of public policy and to have their decision made effective.

PROGRESSIVE PLATFORM COVENANT WITH PEOPLE

"In the platform formulated by the Progressive party we set forth clearly and specifically our faith in every vital point at issue before this people. We have declared our position on the trusts and on the tariff, on the machinery for securing genuine popular government; on the method of meeting the needs of the farmer, of the business man and of the man who toils with his hands, in the mine or on the railroad, in the factory or the shops. There is not a promise we have made which cannot be kept. There is not a promise we have made that will not be kept. Our platform is a covenant with the people of the United States, and if we are given the power we will live up to that covenant in letter and in spirit.

"We know that there are in life injustices which we are powerless to remedy, but we know also that there is much injustice which can be remedied and this injustice we intend to remedy.

"We know that the long path leading upwards to the light cannot be traversed at once or in a day or in a year, but there are certain steps that can be taken at once. These we intend to take. Then, having taken these first steps, we shall see more clearly how to walk still further with a bolder stride. We do not intend to attempt the impossible. But there is much, very much, that is possible in the way of righting wrong and remedying injustice, and all that is possible we intend to do.

APPEAL TO ALL ALIKE WITHOUT DISCRIMINATION

"We intend to strike down privilege, to equalize opportunity, to wrest justice from the hands that do injustice, to hearten and strengthen men and women for the hard battle of life. We stand shoulder to shoulder in a spirit of real brotherhood. We recognize no difference of class, creed or birthplace. We recognize no sectionalism. Our appeal is made to the easterner no less than to the westerner. Our appeal is made to the southerner no less than to the northerner. We appeal to the men who wore the gray just as we appeal to the men who wore the blue. We appeal to the sons of the men who followed Lee, no less than to the sons of the men who followed Grant; for the memory of the great deeds of both is now part of the common heritage of honor which belongs to all our people, wherever they dwell.

"We firmly believe that the American people feel hostility to no man who has honestly won success. We firmly believe that the American people ask only justice, justice each for himself and justice each for all others. They are against wickedness in rich men and poor men alike. They are against lawless and murderous violence exactly as they are against the sordid naturalism which seeks wealth by trickery and cheating, whether on a large or a small scale. They wish to deal honestly and in good faith with all men. They recognize that the prime national need is for honesty, honesty in public life and in private life, honesty in business and in politics, honesty in the broadest and deepest significance of the word.

REPRESENTS HIGHEST FOR HOME AND NATION.

"We Progressives are trying to represent what we know to be the highest ideals and the deepest and most intimate convictions of the plain man and woman, of the good men and women who work for the home and within the home.

"Our people work hard and faithfully; they do not wish to shirk their work. They must feel pride in the work for the work's sake. But there must be bread for the work. There must be a time for play when the men and women are young. When they grow old there must be the certainty of rest under conditions free from the haunting care of utter poverty. We believe that no life is worth anything unless it is a life of labor and effort and endeavor.

"We believe in the joy that comes with work, for he who labors best is really happiest. We must shape conditions so that no one can own the spirit of the man who loves his task, and gives the best there is in him to that task; and it matters not whether this man reaps and sows and wrests his livelihood from the rugged reluctance of the soil, or whether with hand or brain he plays his part in the tremendous industrial activities of our great cities.

"We are striving to meet the needs of all these men, and to meet them in such fashion that all alike shall feel bound together in the bond of a common brotherhood, where each works hard for himself and for those dearest to him, and yet feels that he must also think of his brother's rights because he is in very truth that brother's keeper.

LEADER IS INSTRUMENT; "SPEND AND BE SPENT."

"Seven months ago in this city almost at the beginning of the present campaign I spoke as follows:

"'The leader for the time being, whoever he may be, is but an instrument to be used until broken and then to be cast aside; and if he is worth his salt he will care no more when he is broken than a soldier cares when he is sent where life is a forfeit in order that the victory may be won. In the long fight for righteousness the watchword for all is "spend and be spent." It is of little matter whether any one man fails or succeeds; but the cause shall not fail, for it is the cause of mankind. We, here in America hold in our hands the hope of the world, the faith of the coming years; and shame and disgrace will be ours if in our eyes the light of high resolve is dimmed, if we trail in the dust the golden hopes of men.'

"Friends, what I said then I say now. Surely there never was a greater opportunity than ours. Surely there never was a fight better worth making than this. I believe we shall win. BUT WIN OR LOSE I AM GLAD BEYOND MEASURE THAT I AM ONE OF THE MANY WHO IN THIS FIGHT HAVE STOOD READY TO SPEND AND BE SPENT, PLEDGED TO FIGHT WHILE LIFE LASTS THE GREAT FIGHT FOR RIGHTEOUSNESS AND FOR BROTHERHOOD AND FOR THE WELFARE OF MANKIND."

Of Interest to Gazette Readers

For months Colorado Springs citizens have seen in these columns enthusiastic praise of Doan's Kidney Pills by Colorado Springs residents. Would these prominent people recommend a remedy that had not proven reliable? Would they confirm their statements after years had elapsed if personal experience had not shown the remedy to be worthy of endorsement? The following statement should carry conviction to the mind of every Gazette reader.

Mrs. C. W. Brewer, 316 S. Institute St., Colorado Springs, Colo., says: "I continue to endorse Doan's Kidney Pills. They made a permanent cure and I shall always be pleased to tell of their merits. When we were living in Marceline, Mo., Doan's Kidney Pills were first used in our home. They were taken for an attack of kidney trouble that doctors had failed to relieve and they brought splendid results."

WIDOW CHARGED WITH THEFT OF GIFTS FROM HOME OF NEWLYWEDS

When Mr. and Mrs. Ray S. McGarry, who were married last week, returned Saturday from their honeymoon trip, they found the front door of their home unlocked, the rooms in disorder as though hurriedly ransacked, and valuable wedding presents missing.

The articles that disappeared during their absence included a quantity of silverware—knives, forks and spoons—and two highly valued hand-embroidered centerpieces. Mr. and Mrs. McGarry live at 1306 Lincoln avenue. He is an engineer in the Exchange National Bank building.

Suspicion of theft pointed to Mrs. Tracy Kimball, a widow, 50 years old, who lives at 1411 Washington avenue. Detective C. S. Railsback and Constable Edward Payton yesterday afternoon searched the home of Mrs. Kimball and found the missing articles, which were identified by Mr. and Mrs. McGarry. On Mrs. Kimball's back porch they also found a washing machine bench that another neighbor had missed for some time.

Mrs. Kimball was arraigned before Justice Dunnington on charges of larceny and burglary and gave bond for $500 for appearance at the preliminary examination set for November 7.

Roosevelt Sends Message.

Just after he left the Madison Square Garden meeting, Colonel Roosevelt was informed of the death of Vice President Sherman. The colonel immediately sent the following telegram:

TAFT IS FAT CRYSTAL GAZER, SAYS MARSHALL

MANKATO, Minn., Oct. 30.—Gov. Thomas R. Marshall, Democratic vice presidential candidate, ridiculed President Taft here this afternoon.

"Mr. Taft's recent utterances regarding the possibility of a panic in this country if we Democrats win at the polls next week certainly is amusing," said Mr. Marshall. "When Mr. Taft takes to crystal gazing, and sees a panic in the wake of Democratic victory, he forgets that no one ever saw a fat medium, just as no one ever has seen a cadaverous cupid. Mr. Taft, in the role of a medium, is about the funniest thing that has occurred in this campaign. He reminds me of one of Charles Dickens' characters na Joey Bagstock, whom Dickens s of as being devilishly sly. If you not familiar with Joey Bagstock urge you to look him up."

WEATHER DOESN'T DAMPEN SPIRIT OF PROGRESSIVES

Despite inclement weather, a large audience last night greeted the speakers at the Progressive meeting in the V. Z. Reed hose house at 19 East Las Animas street. Characteristic Progressive enthusiasm prevailed.

W. W. Gail gave the reasons for the birth of the Progressive party. He said that under present conditions the people are not getting what they are entitled to receive, but that under this new departure, the people, if the movement succeeded, would be in a position to care for their own interests.

T. B. McDonald, Progressive candidate for district attorney, declared that the real hope of the people is in the Progressive party.

"The old parties," he said, "are going on the assumption that human government has reached the limit of progress. The Progressive idea is that a much larger share should be given the people in the administration of their government."

John H. Weir said that the people should be consulted in framing the laws under which they live, and that the Progressive movement offers them a great privilege.

"The man who does not exercise his elective franchise," he said, "is not worthy of citizenship."

H. G. ARMSTRONG IS NOW WITH HUTCHISON-HILL CO.

Holly G. Armstrong of this city has become connected with the Hutchison-Hill Land Sales company and will be located here in charge of the company business in Colorado, Kansas and New Mexico. He has had considerable experience as a land man, being for many years in the employ of the government at Washington, D. C. He came to Colorado Springs six years ago and has been connected with some of the largest land companies in the country since that time. The company has taken a contract to colonize a 50,000-acre tract of land in southern Florida and has opened offices in the McCormick building, Chicago. Its general sales offices will be there.

COMMISSION FIRMS ASK FOR DISPLAY DISTRICT

Commission firms on Huerfano street and Cascade avenue yesterday presented a petition to the city council for the establishment of a commission district in which liberal concessions will be made for the display of merchandise. The petition was referred to Commissioner Himebaugh, and recommendation probably will be made at the session tomorrow.

The petition asks that the proposed district embrace the east side of Cascade avenue from Huerfano street to Cucharas, and the south side of Huerfano street, including numbers 1 to 7. Permission is asked to display merchandise during business hours on both the inside and outside edges of the sidewalks, leaving nine feet for the use of the public, the displays to be arranged to eliminate danger of injury to passersby.

CARDINAL FARLEY COMING TO SPRINGS IN NOVEMBER

Cardinal John Farley of New York city arrived here at 11:40 o'clock yesterday morning, traveling in his private car "Weldon" over the Denver and Rio Grande railroad. He left five minutes later, bound for Salt Lake City. More than 100 local Catholics had gathered at the station to see him, and he made a brief address from the rear of his car.

When Cardinal Farley returns from Salt Lake City two weeks from now, he will stop off here at least 24 hours, partly for the purpose of inspecting the Union Printers home. He was invited to visit here on his way west, but was unable to do so.

PARTY PLATFORMS WILL BE DISCUSSED SUNDAY

A joint discussion of the Progressive, Democratic and Socialist platforms will be held in Carpenters hall next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, to be followed by an open forum. In the discussion W. W. Gail will represent the Progressive party, Dr. George Boyd the Democratic, and H. C. Darrah the Socialist. The public is invited.

A. C. Bernat, chairman of the Socialist county central committee, last night said: "We challenged 18 Republicans in an effort to get them into the discussion, but none of them accepted."

SEEKS A DIVORCE FROM 77-YEAR OLD HUSBAND

Declaring that her husband, Dr. George H. Grimmell, 77 years old, has a sullen and disagreeable disposition, and that she no longer can endure his alleged outbreaks, Mrs. Emma Grimmell yesterday filed petition for divorce in the district court. She alleges cruelty as the ground for the decree.

Mrs. Grimmell avers that her aged husband has used "violent, profane and opprobious language" in expressing his opinion of her, and that he has threatened and abused her. She declares that on one occasion when she was ill he refused to permit her the services of a nurse.

The complaint alleges that Dr. Grimmell has real and personal property valued at approximately $21,000. In asserting that most of this property has been acquired since their marriage, Mrs. Grimmell asks a share of it.

The couple were married in Colorado Springs, May 2, 1897. Dr. Grimmell then was 62 years old and his bride was 37.

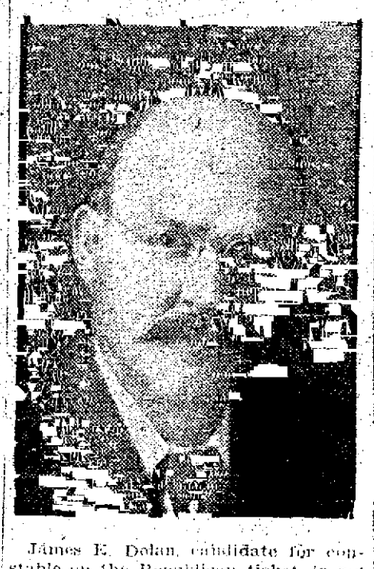
JAMES E. DOLAN
REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR CONSTABLE



James E. Dolan, candidate for constable on the Republican ticket, is not the stamp of man who will use his office for petty graft or injustice to the innocent or unfortunate. Faithfulness to duty will be his watchword and those who know his industrious habits can be assured that he will be "always on the job."

Mr. Dolan was born and reared in Boston, Mass., and came to this city about eight years ago. For several years he has been in the fruit and vegetable business and is personally known in hundreds of homes in Colorado Springs. He has always been a straightforward Republican and this year has been open and above board as to his political dealings. He has cheerfully helped many other candidates, not only this year but in former elections, and is broad enough to have many friends in the Democratic ranks and among the followers of the Progressive party.

LOOKING UP RECORDS OF OLD WATER RIGHTS

Judge Charles D. Hayt of Denver is in Colorado Springs to study court records relating to the Harmes ditch rights and to make a trip of inspection over the ground. The city is considering purchasing the rights and some time ago retained him to investigate them. He has been studying papers bearing on the matter for some time and will be here for several days. It is not likely that he will be ready to report for some weeks yet. City Attorney McKesson, who is assisting Judge Hayt in his investigation, will accompany him in his trip over the ground involved.

College Gymnasium Fund Must Be Completed in a Few Weeks

Colorado college is working hard to complete the $100,000 fund for the men's gymnasium. When the first gift of $50,000 for this building was pledged, the donor stipulated that the remaining sum necessary for the building must be given by Colorado people, or people affiliated with Colorado. When President Slocum was in the east recently he saw only persons who are or have been residents of this state, and it was from these persons that he secured pledges for something more than $11,000, as announced in yesterday's Gazette.

The remaining $20,000 will have to come from Colorado. A prominent business man of this city offered to be one of 20 men to make up the balance still needed to complete the building and have it in readiness for the college anniversary next June.

President Slocum is doing all in his power to accomplish this so that he may be free to devote his time and energy to completing the balance of the $200,000 fund for endowment. He must be in New York for the annual meeting of the trustees of the Carnegie foundation, of which he is a member, November 9, and is planning to give all the time he can spare then to the endowment fund.

President Slocum said yesterday:

"Everything depends upon securing the balance of the building fund, of which $80,000 is pledged on the condition that the entire $100,000 is raised."

History of the Fund.

In April, 1911, the general education board promised Colorado college a gift of $50,000 on condition that an additional sum of $250,000 be raised, the further stipulation being made that $200,000 of this sum must go to increase the endowment fund of the college, while the remaining sum of $100,000 could be used for the erection of a building.

At the annual commencement exercises in June, 1912, President Slocum announced a gift of $50,000 toward the erection of a men's building, with the stipulation that $50,000 more must be raised for the purpose from residents of Colorado.

September 27, 1912, the students of Colorado college held a big mass meeting and pledged $7,500 for the new building. October 1, 1912, E. P. Shove of this city agreed to give one dollar for every dollar raised by the students of Colorado college for the new building.

October 29, President Slocum announced that in his recent trip to the east he had raised $11,500 for the new building fund.

Twenty thousand dollars more are needed.

October 29, the announcement was made that a prominent business man of the city offers to be one of 20 men to complete the balance still needed.

Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents worth) in a pint bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, croup, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasantly.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equaled.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

News of Local Courts

C. Limsky, a junk dealer on South Sierra Madre street, charged with stealing batteries from switch signals in the Denver, Rio Grande yards, yesterday was bound over to the district court by Justice Gowdy under bonds of $250. Limsky is in the county jail, but expects to furnish bond this morning.

Frank Dailey, accused of complicity in the recent theft of a suitcase from a Mexican ranchman at the Denver & Rio Grande depot, yesterday was sentenced by Justice Gowdy to 45 days in the county jail.

On grounds of desertion, Nola E. Stephenson yesterday was granted a divorce from J. J. Stephenson in the district court. The couple were married August 22, 1896, in Ottawa, Kan., where, it is said, Stephenson is a wealthy coal operator.

Seven electric motor trucks will be purchased by the Manila postoffice.

The Canadian Pacific railway has introduced oil-burning locomotives.

W. C. T. U. OFFICERS TENDERED RECEPTION

One hundred and ten delegates returning from the national convention of the W. C. T. U. in Portland, Ore., arrived in Colorado Springs yesterday and spent the day here, going to Denver in the evening. The convention was attended by 400 delegates, representing an organization of about 200,000.

Many prominent officers of the W. C. T. U. were on the special train and the visitors were given a reception at the Acacia hotel in the afternoon by the local orders. Mrs. Adrianna Hungerford of Denver, state president of the W. C. T. U., with her husband, Dr. Hungerford, was present. Mrs. Stevens spoke in Colorado City during the afternoon and Miss Anna Adams Gordon, of Evanston, Ill., the national vice president, spoke in Manitou.

In the evening a meeting was held at the First Presbyterian church, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. A short prayer and song service was held, after which several of the prominent visiting workers gave addresses. The address of Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, national president, was the principal talk of the evening. Mrs. Stevens is from Portland, Me., and the subject of her talk was "Prohibition in Maine."

She said that she is particularly proud of the prohibition record of her home state. Statewide prohibition first went into effect there in 1851 and has been in force continuously ever since, despite attempts to have the law repealed. Since the passage of the law a legalized saloon or brewery has become unknown in that state. Mrs. Stevens expects future good to come from the law there, as the governor-elect favors a prohibition platform.

Mrs. Stevens has been national president since the death of Miss Willard, the pioneer advocate of temperance, 14 years ago. Miss Gordon, the vice president of the national body, travels with Mrs. Stevens and was also the companion of Miss Willard in the work. Miss Gordon worked faithfully for the cause with Miss Willard for 21 years. Mrs. Margaret Dye Ellis of Washington, D. C., national superintendent of the department of legislation, is also on the special train. Mrs. Ellis attended the Peace congress at The Hague, carrying the credentials of the United States government as well as the indorsement of the National W. C. T. U. Miss Bessie Laythe Scovell of Minnesota, who is college secretary of the Young People's branches, is an enthusiastic member of the party of national officers. Mrs. Emma Shelton, president for the District of Columbia, who will be hostess at the next national convention which will be held in Washington next fall, is also with the other officers.

File Plat for Water System for Manitou

A part of the Manitou municipal water system, now in course of construction, has been filed with the state engineer, and probably will be filed this week with the county clerk.

The reservoir will have a total capacity of 30,000,000 cubic feet of water and the pipe distribution will replace sent on extensions of $10,000. The survey was begun March 28, and it is planned that the system shall be in operation early next year. The reservoir is situated at the fork of Fremont creek, the source of supply. When the system was planned the town of Manitou became involved in a controversy with the Empire Water and Power company over water rights, which resulted in a settlement being effected.

Carl C. Kranzenstein, Mgr. J. G. Tanner Drug Store, Santa Cruz, Cal., writes: "We have sold Foley & Company's medicines for the past 20 years and have yet to hear our first complaint, or to see a dissatisfied customer. Their remedies are pure, made as represented, and contain no injurious substances. On the contrary, our experience shows us that the Company's aim has always been to make health-giving and health-maintaining remedies." The Robinson Drug Co. Adv.

He has improved the accounting system so that it is now second to none in the state.

He has handled an increased business in his department without increasing the number of employes.

The office has been conducted upon a sound business and banking basis, is now handling more than one million dollars per year, and is the collecting and disbursing agent of 61 school districts, towns and cities and of several important county funds.

His administration has been high class in every respect, and the residents of El Paso county will be assured of an efficient and economical administration of this important office by again electing Mr. McMahon county treasurer.

Visit City in Interests Good Roads, Immigration and Moffat Tunnel Bills

A. J. Halter and Bernard Dolan, representing the Denver chamber of commerce, were in Colorado Springs yesterday in the interests of the Moffat Tunnel bill, the Good Roads bill and the Immigration bill. They are making a preelection tour of the state in the interests of the measures.

"Denver believes," said Dolan, "that by building the Moffat tunnel and constructing a continental line that will have Denver as one of its principal points, more than 100,000 additional tourists can be brought into our city every year. The road will help build up Colorado and Denver, and Colorado Springs will get a large part of the tourist traffic that comes to Denver. As the tunnel will not cost the people anything in the long run, I see no reason why the people should not vote for it."

What the Press Agents Say

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE TODAY

Burk's Big "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co., the largest organization of its kind in America, will be seen at the Grand Opera house today, October 31, matinee and night.

In this occasion the famous old play will be presented in as new and elaborate a form as modern thought and stage invention will permit, and doubtless the Grand Opera house will be filled to its utmost capacity during their performances here. The principal characters in this grand old play will be interpreted by a very competent cast of lady and gentleman artists that have been selected especially for their ability to give a correct interpretation of Uncle Tom, Topsy, Marks, Legree, Eliza, St. Claire and Little Eva. The balance of the cast are exceptionally good, a contingent of vaudeville artists, consisting of jubilee singers, buck and wing dancers, wire walkers, hoop rollers, etc., are introduced throughout the play, making it the strongest production of this popular drama ever presented to the public. A pack of Siberian bloodhounds, horses, ponies, donkeys, and an unusually gorgeous transformation scene are also among the main features of this grand spectacular production.

AT THE PRINCESS

One of the most interesting and instructive pictures to be shown at the Princess this week will be "The Merchant of Venice," which will be placed upon the screen Thursday (today) only. This is a Thanhouser feature, in two full reels, and is taken from Shakespeare's marvelous works. Besides this realistic production, there will be other pictures, so the program will be varied and interesting to all. Chief Silver Tongue, the Indian tenor, will sing.

NEWS NOTES FROM THE BURNS STAGING A PLAY IN STOCK

In the eastern cities it is no unusual thing for a new production to be in rehearsal for five or six weeks, often longer, before it is given to the public. How, then, is the stock producer able to present the same play and at the same time give a creditable performance in one-sixth of the time? Some might say that it was a matter of luck, but that hypothesis will not hold water, for the reason that, in dramatic art, luck plays a very small part. Diligence, application and harmony are the three essentials so that at the first performance the players are able to render a good account of themselves.

Those who attend the road productions, and make comparisons with current stock, should bear these things in mind, not that The Burns players fear any comparison.

The Burns players in "The Great Divide" are in the front rank of any company that ever played this great piece.

"The Great Divide" has never been given at lower prices, and never received more care in preparation. Rest assured you won't be disappointed this week.

Nothing better nor more entertaining is to be seen in the city this week than "The Great Divide." Mr. Fink will give you music worth the cost of tickets.

"The Great Divide" tonight and all the week.

If the people of Colorado Springs really want good amusement, they surely ought to go to the Burns this week. You can see a $2.00 show for from 25c to 50c. This is a fact, not a boast.

BIG STREET PARADE TODAY

The introduction by Burk's Big "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co. is actually a novelty. Nothing like it has ever been seen here or elsewhere in connection with a dramatic organization. It is like a circus parade, and is worth coming out to see. It will positively take place on the principal streets and thoroughfares of our city on the day of their exhibition here at the Grand Opera house, today, matinee and night.

AT THE PRINCESS

To those who have taken up the study of Shakespeare, or those who anticipate doing so, will no doubt be glad to know that "The Merchant of Venice," Shakespeare's marvelous play, will be shown at this theater, Thursday, October 31—one day only. This wonderful picture is a Thanhouser feature, in two full reels, and will be most interesting. Other pictures will be shown in connection with this feature.

Tiger Eleven Will Be Ready for Hard Game With U. C.

Football in its best estate is on the local sport calendar for Saturday afternoon, when Boulder comes to Colorado Springs for the annual skirmish with Colorado college. The oldest football experts are about evenly divided as to the outcome of this battle which promises to be the equal of any of the long string of bitter battles that have been fought by the athletic teams of the two institutions.

Boulder has not been defeated by Colorado college in the last seven years—there was no meeting in 1910—and many are making the prediction that this is a Tiger year.

Saturday's game at Washburn field will bring together a fast, alert and heavy team, representing Boulder, and an equally fast and alert eleven, but a much lighter and younger aggregation, representing Colorado college. This much of the qualities possessed by the rival teams is common knowledge, and in the generally accepted theory that a good, big man always masters the good little man, the university appears a rule favorite.

These who will bet their money on the Tigers, however, take another line in making their deductions. They point out that the Tigers, in their last two games, those against the Colorado Aggies and, today, Nebraska Wesleyan, respectively, defeated decisively heavier eleven and that Rothgeb's team has twice shown that speed and science have won over beef and brawn. The Aggies, outweighed the Tigers 10 pounds per man, Nebraska, 15, and Boulder will tip the beam, man for man, 10 pounds further out than the Tigers.

Boulder "luck," that intangible something that seems always to foist the stingers thus over the university, so far as Colorado Aggies is concerned, is another element that will make the small gamber study a long time before he places his money on the Tiger team Saturday. A smallpox scare in 1910, which prevented a game, and a combination of fatal errors in 1911, saved Boulder from defeat, is the cry among football fans, and there are those who dread the reappearance of Boulder "luck" again Saturday.

Work With Ghost Ball.

And, while many prophecies, both pro and con, are going the rounds wherever football is talked, the Tigers are being groomed and pointed for what is believed will be their hardest game in Colorado this year. Rothgeb has the squad on the jump now. The time available for daylight practice is all too short, and the ghost ball has again been called into play. When it is too dark to see even the white-jacketed rival, the players go through a checkerboard drill.

It's football, morning, noon and night at the training camp just now, and the Tigers appear to relish the diet. This year Rothgeb has a team wherein there is harmony with a big H. He is popular, and in Captain Bowers he has a leader who is always setting the pace for his teammates. Bowers has been through the grind of three training seasons, and his form is such that he probably does not need so much work in the fundamentals of football as others, yet he always is the first to line up before the charging mass and to take his place at the head of the line when the injured are sent off the tackling dummy. There are no dull-footed men on the Tiger squad this year with the exception of Bowers, but there are brilliant players who are rapidly mounting to a place by the football firmament. Stars sometimes disorganize football eleven and hinder development of team work.

Tigers in Good Shape.

"All I want my team to do Saturday is to play the football they know," said Rothgeb last evening when he sent the team off the field. "I am not making any predictions as to the result. Boulder will be strong, of course, and will give us a hard game."

Today and Friday, it is probable that second practice will be the order at Washburn field. The Tigers came through the Nebraska Wesleyan game without serious injury, and have buckled down to a week of strenuous work. They will be in fine trim for Boulder, and lack of condition will be no excuse whatever the result. Moore and Bowers are nursing strains, but it is believed they will be in shape by Saturday.

Young Dundee has startled Gotham fistic fans with his clever scrapping this season. He has mixed with the best light fellows in the state and has some strong matches coming up this year.

MASKED GOLFER PROVES A SENSATIONAL PLAYER

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Golfers at the Van Cortland park links have remarked this week the presence there of a mysterious golfer, who wears a black mask while playing the course. Those who have watched his play declare that the length of his drives is remarkable, enabling him to cover the rather hard course in a score close to bogey with apparent ease.

It was declared today that the mysterious visitor is an English expert who has just come to this country on a wager of $25,000 to break the records of the six best courses in the United States and afterward on a wager of $5,000 to beat the American amateur champion in a match game.

The identity of the masked golfer is kept in obscurity, but it is said that his name is familiar in England and this country. The black masker yesterday took 71 strokes to play the 18 holes at Van Cortland. This is one stroke better than the record. He made one drive of nearly 300 yards, better than the world's record.

PURSE OF $25,000 HUNG UP FOR JOE JEANNETTE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—With the view on deciding on a successor of Jack Johnson's title of heavyweight champion of the world, W. U. J. Kelly, representing Hugh McIntosh, the Australian promoter, signed a contract with Dan McKetrick, manager of Joe Jeannette, here today.

The contract calls for the appearance of Jeannette in five contests in Australia, the first of which will be with Sam Langford and the second with Sam McVey, both of whom are now in Australia. McIntosh agrees to give Jeannette $25,000, with the privilege of 25 per cent of the gate, with five round-trip tickets for himself, manager and sparring partners, and they will sail from San Francisco the latter part of November. In addition to these stipulations, McIntosh will donate a gold belt emblematic of the world's heavyweight championship.

TILLMAN GETS POPULAR DECISION OVER HOPPER

Billy Tillman, the popular Springs welterweight, and Artie Hopper of Colorado City, fought eight fast rounds last night in a bout at the Young Men's Republican club in Colorado City. The men fought under the agreement that if both were on their feet at the finish of the eight rounds the decision was to be a draw, but after the bout the referee stated to the newspaper men that Tillman had the better of the go.

In the last round the men went after each other like wildcats, with Tillman making blows all over Hopper's face and stomach. Billy landed terrifically on the jaw just as the gong sounded, leaving Hopper in distress. In the latter part of the go Hopper was the only thing that saved him from taking the count.

Prior to the bout Tillman had a lot of his friends standing a great many more bets than Hopper. Hopper would not bet on his own but the Springs man has always been where he can back some clever performers and Hopper has proven to be Hopper's strongest card.

Hopper showed eight rounds that he should have earned greater recognition. A number of challenges were made after the bout, one by Hopper, to fight Tillman at 126 pounds and defend a purse of the lightweight weight in the world and next to only champion of Nebraska, agreeing daily to meet the winner of 133 pounds. Hopper preferred a draw. Nevertheless, he put a victory over Billy. He weighed in at 130 pounds and Tillman 126 pounds. Hopper's friends in the Springs are proud of the showing made by their favorite.

Kid Brown, [illegible] Mack's wrestler, [illegible] Brown says he can meet Mack at any weights, at any time and place, at any two days' notice. Brown says he can beat him at 125 pounds, at the weight of Tillman, Hopper or any other man in the city, and was anxious to go a round or two with Mack.

Joe Chase, Boston, also has [illegible] challenge ready. Chase declared his readiness to meet any three men at 11 rounds and to toss the bones for the winners. The Boston boy also has made no secret of his desire to meet Tillman, Hopper or any other man in the city, and Jack Mack was mentioned as preferred by some of the fans.

JAMES SCHOOLCRAFT SHERMAN

TODAY a nation grieves. In the passing away of James Schoolcraft Sherman, Vice President of the United States and Republican nominee for reelection, the world has lost a true and tender soul; the country a devoted patriot, and all mankind a friend.

From the distant shores of Alaska, where the frosts of winter bind fast the streams, to the isles where the waves of eternal summer wash the short of Puerto Rico, and from the coasts of Maine to those of fair Luzon, every true American bows his head in mourning over the death of the Country's second official citizen.

He was true to his principles and sincere in all his undertakings. But greater than his worth in tangible things was his gift of sunshine to his fellow men. His contagious smile and encouraging nod brought happiness to his friends and associates. No greater eulogy may be pronounced than to say that the world is better and happier for having known him.

REAL SINCERITY

PRESS DISPATCHES from the East indicate that Colonel Roosevelt's Madison Square meeting last night was probably the largest political gathering ever assembled in the world. From New York reports, the number who attended and those attempting to get a glimpse of the fighting Colonel aggregated almost a quarter of a million, and the demonstration at his appearance lasted 42 minutes.

It is impossible to contemplate a gathering of such magnitude. But what does it mean? Colonel Roosevelt is only a human being formed after the image of his Creator. He is a man who accomplishes good and makes mistakes much the same as the rest of humanity. In other words, he is just a plain human being. Now, what particular force makes him such an attractive magnet to the millions who rally to his banner?

Summed up it is simply this—Theodore Roosevelt is a positive human force. He is a man who does not hesitate to go ahead and accomplish things. He is not bound, tied and gagged by the machine bosses, who for years have controlled the politics of the nation. He is absolutely independent and possesses the courage of his convictions.

At this time the world is seeking men of this character. It does not want men who play the part of servants, or who bend the knee to the big interests possessing the wealth of the nation. It is seeking the service of the man who can make a fight for the common people; a man who realizes that human rights are above property rights; that life, limb and happiness are after all the great factors in human life. Wealth at best is transitory, and can serve only a small purpose in the general plan of life.

Plainly, this is the reason why a quarter of a million people attempted to see Colonel Roosevelt and hear the words for humanity that fell from his lips. It is hoped by the entire nation that this man, speaking as he did with the assassin's bullet in his body, may be saved and preserved to accomplish still more for these millions who repose confidence in him and believe in his sincerity, politically, morally and every other way.

THE COLLEGE GYM FUND

THE fund for the Men's building at Colorado College is now four-fifths complete. The necessity of securing in Colorado the balance of twenty thousand dollars must be recognized by everyone, and the offer made yesterday by a Colorado Springs business man, that he would be one of twenty to donate this twenty thousand still needed to complete the building fund brings the project a step further on its way. Is it not possible that this offer will be met by other men, so that the college administration may devote its entire time to securing the balance of the two hundred thousand dollars for the endowment fund?

The gift of the general education board, made about a year and a half ago, is conditioned on the raising of a total of three hundred thousand dollars, of which two hundred thousand are to go to the permanent endowment fund of the College. And the pledges to this fund must be completed by January 1, 1913. If the trustees and other friends of the College will meet the present situation in regard to the building the president of the College will be enabled to give the necessary time to the still larger movement for the endowment fund.

The College represents large and permanent things to the state and city. It makes great returns to this community in many ways for everything that has been done for it. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been brought from the east for the college, either to be invested here in permanent improvements or to serve as an endowment fund the income on which is spent in this city. While many demands are made upon our citizens from all sides there is no institution doing more constructive work for the state and this community than is Colorado College, and money invested in the new building will do as much to further the ends of the College founded in our midst as have any funds that have been invested in our city.

HEROISM THAT IS SUBLIME.

Colonel Roosevelt's Bitterest Foes Praise His Magnificent Courage.

[An interesting and encouraging feature of the situation following the attack of the would-be assassin upon Colonel Roosevelt is found in the comment of such of the great newspapers of the country as have most persistently opposed him in his campaign as the Progressive candidate for the presidency. Practically without a single noteworthy exception they not only express unmeasured horror for the deed, as well as sympathy for the great man who so narrowly escaped instant death, but they take occasion at the same time to pay glowing tribute to the magnificent courage and marvelous heroism displayed by him directly after the attack. The excerpts given below are all from what have been prominently known as anti-Roosevelt papers.]

Roosevelt's Wonderful Grit.

From the New York Times.

Only the exceptional man, the extraordinary man, can offer to the world such an exhibition of fortitude as Theodore Roosevelt gave when, suffering from a serious hurt—no one knew how serious it might be—and against the protests of his physicians and the entreaties of his friends, he insisted upon making his speech at Milwaukee Monday evening. But it was characteristic. Mr. Roosevelt showed the indomitable courage, or to use the word that he would be almost certain to use, the grit, that is ingrained in his being. Upon most men the effect of a bullet wound, even of a wound much slighter than that received by Mr. Roosevelt, is immediate disablement. We must look to the field of battle, where in mad excitement men fight on unaware of severe injuries, for a parallel to what Mr. Roosevelt did at Milwaukee. Instances of personal and physical heroism are common upon the battle field; but probably the history of politics affords no example of it worthy to be compared with this. It was rash, it was an act of hardihood, we may say even that it was an act of folly, but it was characteristic, and the judgment of the country will be that it was magnificent.

Roosevelt Superbly Brave.

From the New York American.

Standing before the Milwaukee audience with a bullet in his breast, holding up a manuscript an inch thick which that bullet had pierced, and bleeding from a wound which had so nearly perforated his lung and cost his life, Theodore Roosevelt really stood in the very shadow of death, face to face with that eternity, which as an old-fashioned Presbyterian he solemnly revered.

In these surroundings, physically sustained by his enormous vitality and strength, the ex-president said:

"I tell you now with absolute truthfulness I am not thinking of my own life. I am not thinking of my own success. I am thinking only of the success of this great cause."

In the partisan stress of the campaign there have been those who have questioned Mr. Roosevelt's sincerity and unselfishness in the notable movement which he leads.

But no man who heard these words or reads them in remembrance of their tragic environment can fail to believe that Theodore Roosevelt is not only superbly brave but that he is also splendidly sincere in his present struggle for the people.

The republic can ill afford to lose the energy, the courage and the directness of this remarkable man.

Americans Glory in His Heroism.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

Theodore Roosevelt moves, unconsciously perhaps, in a series of surprises, and his abounding vitality, courage, nerve, readiness in every exigency, inevitably command popular admiration.

What could have been more appealing than that a man, who has just been shot by an assassin, should instantly, even while the smoke is issuing from the revolver barrel, command the excited mob to spare the culprit? How lightly he carried off the wound. He would not hearken to his associates; the shot was a trifle; he would deliver the speech, even though he might die; and he did deliver the address under circumstances of dramatic intensity that have rarely been equaled in life or in the realm of the poet's fancy stirred by a fine frenzy.

Many do not agree with Roosevelt in his political ideas, which certainly bear the sharpest scrutiny, but everyone like courage, grit, sand, good nature and strength; and it somehow makes Americans feel good to know that a man who has been erected into a popular hero bore himself in this fine and admirable way when put to the test. May he live long to give and receive blows.

Never Before So Popular.

From the New York World.

Mr. Roosevelt has been a very popular man for many years, yet we doubt if he ever before held so large a measure of the good will of his fellow citizens as at this moment. The attitude of the whole nation toward him is one of friendship and sympathy and good wishes. Everybody wants him back on his feet and in the campaign again as soon as possible.

Roosevelt's Astounding Grit.

From the Washington Star.

Colonel Roosevelt has always been fearless and in the great crisis at Milwaukee he showed a nerve that wins admiration from his most determined political opponents. It was an astounding exhibition of grit and purpose to carry through a program despite physical danger and suffering.

Fellow Citizens Admire His Pluck.

From the New York Sun.

The fellow citizens of Colonel Roosevelt admire the pluck he has exhibited since the crazy assassin fired the shot. They are delighted to hear news that his prospects are favorable, even though the wound proves more serious than at first supposed; and they are wishing him, with all their hearts, the quickest and most prosperous of recoveries.

BARRING WOMEN AS LAWYERS.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

There is no doubt that some slight interest will be taken by women in general in the decision of the British Law society, which in its conference at Cardiff recently decided not to admit women as solicitors. One of the principal reasons given for this adverse decision will probably cause more comment than the action itself. It is that "the average English woman has not yet learned to be honest."

Besides being a very bald and unvarnished statement of a debatable point, there is in it a decided lack of gallantry which will undoubtedly be vigorously attacked by the male exponents of a "less cultured" western civilization. In this country we have many women lawyers who are regarded with the greatest respect by practitioners of the stronger sex. They are proving as painstaking and conscientious in looking after the welfare of their clients as any male lawyer could be, and their opinions are listened to with as much interest by courts, laymen and the legal world as if they originated in a masculine instead of a feminine brain.

However, the decision of the law society is in many respects characteristically British, which would rather regard a woman as a domestic machine than as a factor in the serious business of running the country. There may be also just a little fear wrapped up in it, a fear that letting down the bars would encourage encroachments which before long would prove decidedly embarrassing to the male contingent.

WHAT IS PROGRESSIVENESS?

From the Chicago Tribune.

Governor Wilson thinks he is progressive, and perhaps he is in his limited academic way. But Progressiveness, as others understand it, is, broadly, an aspect of life in which the tariff has a small, if relevant, part.

Progressiveness is a state of mind, not a set of opinions that are not divinely inspired, on this or that economic question.

SHE WAS SO TIMID.

REMARKABLE VERSATILITY.

From the Goshen Democrat.

While speaking here S. M. Ralston, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, answered a questioner, a Republican.

MISSISSIPPI HIGH SPOTS.

From the Gulfport Herald.

Visit the State Fair and spend a few days in your capital city. The many points of interest are well worth the trip alone. The New Capitol, Old Capital, Insane Hospital, Blind Institute, State Charity Hospital, Deaf and Dumb Institute, Old Ladies' Home, Methodist Orphanage, Baptist Orphanage, and numbers of other points of interest.

A SUCCESSFUL COLLABORATION.

From the Liberty (Mo.) Tribune.

We are thankful that the goal has at last been reached; that after much tribulation and by the help of a Bluegrass Seed Cleaner which I have invented, the farmers can now not only harvest their bluegrass seed, but can clean it of all straw and chaff, and meet the best market price. This happy condition of things has been reached by the help of God—

"Who moves in His mysterious way,
His wonders to perform;
Who plants His footsteps on the sea
And rides upon the storm."

And the farmer who has bluegrass seed to harvest with the cylinder power Bluegrass Seed Harvester can now sit under his own vine and fig tree and be ready, like Stonewall Jackson, "to cross over the river and rest in the shade of the trees."—A. W. Thomasson.

Too Much Bother

By RUTH CAMERON.

The other evening I was calling on a friend of mine who boards, and found her sitting in her room reading by an electric light of no great strength, and placed several feet above her head.

I asked her if reading with a light like that did not try her eyes, and she said "Yes, it does a little. My landlady told me she had a kerosene reading lamp I might use, but I should have to fill it and take care of it myself. It's too much bother."

It is really startling to me to notice what things we foolish mortals call "too much bother."

Nothing apparently is too important, nothing is too vital, nothing can have too tremendous consequences for us to say serenely in regard to it, "It's too much bother."

I know a woman who is a great sufferer from indigestion. She has consulted a half-dozen doctors, she has taken enough medicine to stock a drug store, and still she is steadily drained of efficiency and vitality by this miserable trouble. The last time I saw her she said, "This new doctor told me that if I would take a long walk before breakfast every morning it would help me."

"And didn't it?" I asked.

"Well, I tried it a few times," she said, and I think it was doing me some good, but I have kind of dropped it lately. It's such a bother."

The mother of a very strong-willed baby is now facing her first problem in discipline. The youngster has reached the age when he wants to throw his play things on the floor to see someone pick them up. His mother made a few feeble attempts to teach him that he must not do this, and that if he did the toys would stay on the floor, but the youngster promptly raised a rumpus and his mother soon gave up the struggle and devoted herself to picking up the toys whenever they were thrown overboard. "It's so much easier to do that," she explained when an older woman protested. "I can't fight it out with him every time. It's too much bother."

Another young woman, who had been married just long enough to get into the I've-got-him-so-it-doesn't-matter-attitude, was reproached by one of her unmarried friends for not dressing up in the afternoon before her husband came home. "You have some pretty dresses. Why don't you wear them?" said the critic.

And, of course, you know what the lady answered.

Is it too much bother to have good eyesight?
Is it too much bother to be well?
Is too much bother to have obedient children?
Is it too much bother to have a husband who likes to look at you?

The world is full of good things for those who do not find it "too much bother" to take them.

Be one of these.

MEASURES TO BE VOTED ON AT ELECTION NOV. 5

In order that the voters of El Paso county may familiarize themselves with the proposed laws and amendments to be voted on at the general election November 5, The Gazette intends each day to publish a brief abstract of one of the proposed measures, until the entire 32 have been set forth.

The twenty-seventh proposition to be voted upon at the coming election has to do with the compensation of county, precinct and other officers. It is an amendment to the constitution and reads as follows:

"For the purpose of providing for, regulating, the compensation of county, precinct and other officers the general assembly shall by law classify the several counties of the state according to population and shall grade and fix the compensation of the officers within the respective classes according to the population thereof. Such law shall establish scales of fees to be charged and collected by such of the county, precinct and other officers as may be designated therein for services to be performed by them respectively; and where salaries are provided all fees, perquisites, fees and emoluments shall be paid into the county treasury."

Baggage Masters

By GEORGE FITCH,

Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

A baggage master is the quiet, undisturbed individual who takes care of the traveler's spare time at the railway station. Nobody knows how much spare time he has at a railway station until the baggage master gets hold of it.

It is fine to watch a good, easy working baggage master. He is so placid and unworried that he should be a perpetual rebuke to the nervous travelers who are fussing because it is past train time and their trunks aren't checked. The baggage master has a great deal of work to do and the welfare of hundreds depends on him. Yet he never worries. Worry and baggage men are strangers. A baggage man wouldn't worry if 40 trains were to leave in 10 minutes and 200 passengers were yelling for their checks.

"Perpetual rebuke to the nervous travelers who are fussing because it is past train time."

Why should he? Wouldn't the passengers be doing all that could be expected in the worry line?

The baggage man never worries because he never hurries. Once a baggage man hurried and the members of his profession tried him for heresy. But he proved that he was checking his own trunk, and he was acquitted.

The baggage master has spent years mastering the art of checking a trunk in four minutes, finishing 15 seconds before train time with a coldly disinterested air. It is his proudest achievement. Give a baggage master your trunk an hour before the train leaves and he will check it in a hurry and return to his knitting. Arrive two minutes before train time and he will gaze at you sadly and go away 14 miles with a sore leg to the trunk which is 10 feet off. He will check the trunk all the way from the middle ages on the seething present and will hand the check to you with the air of one who is not used to carrying checks and despises the exertion.

Thousands of passengers have taken later trains because the baggage master has refused to worry. Other thousands have gotten their trains and nervous prostration. The baggage master's batting average is about 900 per cent. He gets most of us, one way or the other. Baggage masters and the high cost of living are ruining the nerves of the American people and until the said b. m. learns how to worry, the life of the traveler will not be worth living.

TO HESITANT DEMOCRATS

There are hundreds of thousands of Democrats in the United States, voting with the party only as a matter of habit and from associations, who have not for years been satisfied with its character. They object to Tammany; they object to free trade; they object to the un-American class in the big cities upon which Democratic bosses depend for votes; they object to many things, but, naturally, have no use for the Republican party as an alternative.

The Progressive party is where the better class of Democrats belong, and thousands and tens of thousands recognize the fact, and have joined its ranks. Regard for the betterment of conditions is what they want. Theirs is real Americanism.

TO HESITANT REPUBLICANS

It is evident now that more than half the members of the Republican party, dissatisfied with the manner in which that party is managed by its present trust-directed leaders, will vote with the Progressives. The Progressive party will be formed with the better class of Republicans as its mainstay, just as the better class of Whigs became the mainstay of the Republican party when it was born. Why should any honest Republican, one having the welfare of his country at heart, hesitate at joining in this movement of his old political associates? What's in a name? It is only a party trade mark. The principles fought for are the thing.

THE HASKIN LETTER

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS
XX—THE HAYES-TILDEN FIGHT

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The election of 1876 will go down in history as one of the most remarkable political episodes in the history of republics. It marked the first and only failure of the election machinery provided by the American constitution to perform its functions. The extra-constitutional method resorted to in order to decide the election, demonstrated how partisan considerations will influence the judgment of men. This was so pronounced as to cause Senator Dawes to remark that if any situation like that of 1876 should again arise, neither party would accept the methods employed in that contest, and the government might be wrecked over a succession.

Not one of the 15 men who constituted the electoral commission voted otherwise than according to the desires of his party, and the outcome, as remarked by one senator, "was the result of the blind chance in the selection of the fifteenth member of the commission." It was thought, when the bill creating the commission was passed, that the fifteenth member would be David Davis of Illinois. Davis had been Lincoln's campaign manager in 1860, and in 1872 he was considered for the Liberal Republican nomination for president. Now he was one of those who had gone into the Democratic fold. Some charge that his election to the United States senate by the Democrats, with the aid of Republican votes, was a scheme to get him off the bench and prevent his becoming the fifteenth member of the commission. At any rate, it is generally agreed that if he had remained on the bench he would have been the fifteenth member, and would have reversed the final vote, making it eight in favor of the Tilden contention and seven for Hayes, instead of eight for Hayes and seven for Tilden.

Grant Invited Call.

The events leading up to the final issue before the electoral commission are full of interest. Grant, toward the end of his second term, was urged by some of his friends, to stand for a third term, just as all the other two term presidents had been—Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Jackson. But unlike them, he did not spurn the suggestion; on the contrary he welcomed it. When the Pennsylvania state Republican convention pronounced against a third term, he wrote its presiding officer, General Harry White, that while he did not care for a third term, the time might come when it would be unfortunate to make a change at the end of eight years. He added that only if a renomination came to him in such a way as to make it his imperative duty to accept it, would he do so. This was generally construed as permission to his friends to invite a national call for him.

A little later the house of representatives took a hand in his ambitions and passed a resolution which 70 out of the 88 voting Republicans favored. This resolution declared that it would be "unwise, unpatriotic and fraught with peril to our free institutions" for

SHIP CAR A DAY FROM THE LOWER DEAD PINE

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Oct. 30.—The output from the Lower Dead Pine mine on Battle mountain which is under lease to Carnduff and Duncan is a car a day and the average value of the ore is $25 a ton. The ore is mined from the fourth and sixth levels. The condition of the mine is said to be very satisfactory. On the fourth level the shute is about 150 feet long and four feet wide and the stope is 75 feet high. On the sixth level the ore body has been opened about 100 feet and the stope is 50 feet high. There is a world of ore in sight. Royalties amount to $8,000 a month.

MABLE M. ORE SHUTE DEVELOPMENT IS GOOD

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Oct. 30.—Ore has been opened both north and south of the shaft in the Mable M. property on the east slope of Beacon hill on the bottom or twelfth level and the shute is even better than the ore in the level above.

The development of this level is entirely satisfactory. The ore shutes at this depth continue to produce heavily, resulting in a production of better than a car a day. The average output at this time is 40 cars a month.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The shadows of war hung over the financial horizon again today. All foreign markets were unsettled after an early period of optimism due to reports that two of the leading European powers had arrived at an amicable understanding regarding the conflict in the Balkans.

London's early tone was one of cheerfulness on buying orders from the continent and absence of further liquidation in Canadian Pacific. That stock rose over 4 points abroad and almost the entire American group closed strong.

As a result of this apparent improvement our market opened with a general and substantial rise, Canadian Pacific gaining over 3 points with 1 point gains in Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Reading, Lehigh Valley, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper, Anaconda and American Smelting. Before the end of the first hour, persistent selling had wiped out most of the advance and at midday it was utterly effaced, with some issues selling under yesterday's low.

By that time, news from Europe had again assumed an alarming tone and there were signs that the foreign markets were once more under a severe strain. Short selling, especially in Steel, and presumably based upon yesterday's financial statement, was a factor of the declining movement which was checked in the final hour.

More or less complete recoveries were then recorded, regardless of a rise of 6 per cent in call loans, the rally continuing to the firm but dull close, and with numerous net gains.

The one important railway report was that of the Reading system, which showed net gains for both its lines and coal companies, the whole totaling $816,000, and a surplus increase of over $800,000.

Bonds were lower, especially convertible issues. Total sales, par value, aggregated $1,600,000.

United States government bonds were unchanged on call.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—More courage developed today on the selling side of the wheat market than had been witnessed in some time. An understanding between Russia and Austria relative to the Turkish war gave the bears an advance. Accordingly, the market, though steady at the close, finished ½@⅝c to 1⅞@1⅞c under last night.

Right from the start there was pressure to sell wheat. Improved crop conditions in Argentina, glut of receipts of Minneapolis and well stocked conditions at western European centers aided bear sentiment. December ranged from 90⅞@91c to 91¾@91⅞c, with last sales 1@1¼c lower at 91@91⅛c.

Corn for October delivery sold at the lowest price of the season and closed ⅝@⅞c down at 52⅞@52c.

Oats finished at 32@32¼c.

Provisions in the end stood 5@20c to 7½@20c above last night.

The Haskin Letter

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS
XX—THE HAYES-TILDEN FIGHT
By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

the third term precedent to be ignored. The total vote was 234 for the resolution to 18 against it. This effectually ended the Grant third consecutive term boom.

The support of the administration then went to Roscoe Conkling and Oliver P. Morton. Blaine was the anti-administration candidate. When the convention met he had more votes than any other two candidates and it became a case of the field against him. Although an investigation into some of his financial transactions was then being made, he nevertheless was the favorite in the voting up to the seventh ballot when the convention swung to Rutherford B. Hayes who was a dark horse up to the fifth ballot. Even then he was but little behind Hayes, who had the nomination on the seventh ballot with only six votes to spare.

Break Unit Rule.

The Republicans broke the unit rule in this convention. Four Pennsylvania delegates wanted to vote their own sentiments and the chair sustained them. Its decision was appealed from, but sustained. Four years later an attempt was made to enforce it again, but it failed and ever since the Republicans have refused to recognize this rule.

The Democrats held their convention in St. Louis, to which the Tilden supporters went with a majority conceded to them. Tilden was nominated with his leading opponent, Thomas A. Hendricks, as his running mate.

The campaign that followed was not a bitter one. Hayes was a somewhat colorless candidate and no one foresaw anything but a smooth finish to a somewhat indifferent campaign. The night the returns came in everyone conceded the election to Tilden, and but for a chance inquiry it might have gone that way. But this inquiry, coming from the Democratic headquarters to a Republican newspaper, indicated doubt and Chairman Chandler of the Republican national committee promptly capitalized that doubt with orders to his aides to claim everything. And they did.

Tilden received the greatest popular majority ever received by a defeated presidential candidate, having more than a quarter of a million more votes in the November election than Hayes. But by claiming the votes of several southern states, South Carolina, Louisiana and Florida, the Republican candidate could count 185 electoral votes to 184 for the Democratic candidate. The Democrats insisted that the votes belonged to them, and with a Democratic house and a Republican senate there was no possibility of either accepting the view of the other.

Civil War Threatened.

The outlook for the settlement of the controversy was dark. There was danger of civil war. Senator Edmunds afterward drew a graphic picture of the situation as it threatened to be. He said that a Democratic house would have declared Tilden elected and a Republican senate would have pronounced Hayes the successful candidate. Each would have tried to assume the reins of government, with his partisans behind him. Hayes could not have performed the functions of the office, because the Democratic house would not pass the necessary appropriation bills permitting him to carry on the administration. On the other hand, Tilden would have been as badly handicapped, as a Republican senate would have refused to confirm his appointments and the government could not be manned by administrative officers. With each taking the oath of office and attempting to exercise its duties, the solemn ceremony of taking the oath, and the inaugural pageant would have been but the prelude to an awful tragedy of anarchy and civil war, which would have continued until the next election and perhaps thereafter, since no proper machinery for a nation-wide election would have been possible.

The electoral commission idea was the outgrowth of the "grand committee" that had been advocated by many since the days of the framing of the constitution. It was advocated by members of both parties. There were a few on both sides who opposed it. But as there seemed to be no other way out of the difficulty, both houses agreed to the measure creating the commission. Morrill said that if either house had thought the fifteenth member would not be nonpartisan, the measure could not have passed. Senator Ingalls said afterward that the commission was a device favored by each party in the belief that it would cheat the other, and which resulted in defrauding both.

Votes With Republicans.

Briefly, the commission was to be made up of three Democrats from the house, two from the senate, and two from the supreme court, with three Republicans from the senate, two from the house and two from the supreme court. The four justices of the supreme court were to choose the fifth member. The Democrats thought it would be David Davis when they allowed the bill to pass, and the Republicans thought it would be Bradley. And Bradley was. He said he thought it almost too much to expect him to be the only nonpartisan man on the commission, that he was human and unable to give a strictly unbiased judgment just as much as any other member of the commission.

When the testimony was heard Bradley voted on every question of fact and of law in entire harmony with the seven Republican members of the commission. Whether it was the Oregon case, where it was acknowledged that one of the Republican electors held a position of "profit or trust" under the government; or in the case of the double returns of Louisiana; or in the case of the Florida court decisions; or in the South Carolina case; he voted with the Republicans. He said afterward that he had some doubt about the justice of the Florida situation. After all the contests were heard the claims of not a single Democratic elector among the disputed ones was recognized, and the claims of every Republican elector were. And every vote stood eight to seven. The result proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that when the stakes in a contest are as great as they were in the Hayes-Tilden contest, men are bound to have their judgments influenced by their party affiliations.

There were charges that the Democrats tried to change the result before the electoral colleges cast their vote by corrupting one elector, but if it was true not a single elector could be thus influenced. There is a story to the effect that Roscoe Conkling had decided to rally enough Republicans in the senate to count in the Tilden disputed electors, but was induced to change his mind by the daughter of Salmon P. Chase as a method of gratifying her grudge against Tilden for defeating Chase for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1868.

FOR COMMISSIONER
SECOND DISTRICT

W. T. KENNEDY

Progressive and Republican candidate for county commissioner representing the Second district, has been a resident of El Paso county for the past 26 years, living in the vicinity of Amo, where he has operated a stock ranch. Mr. Kennedy has always taken an active interest in public affairs, but has never held any public office. His quarter of a century of experience as a rancher in this county has familiarized him thoroughly with the needs of the agricultural region of the county, whose wealth and importance is increasing at a remarkable rate, and it is not to be denied that no man in the county is better qualified by training and experience to fill the office of commissioner to the advantage of the county. Nine years as a teacher in the public schools in southeastern Kansas gives him an added qualification not to be ignored. Mr. Kennedy is a staunch champion of good roads, and with him in the county commissioner's office, the movement is sure to receive new impetus.

Mr. Kennedy was successful in the September primary election.

OUR GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and luster, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow.
